TANK BATTLE RAGES BELOW GERMAN BASE

British Stab Across Odon River; Faced by Four German Divisions.

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 28—A powerful British armored drive outflanking Caen smashed through the Germans' Odon river defenses today and a big tank battle blazed in open country five miles southwest of that eastern Normandy base.

The invasion's biggest tank battle appeared to be under way or in the offing in the open terrain below Caen, which the Germans must defend or go into full retreat. The Germans have concentrated four armored divisions in the Caen sector.

The steel fist of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's offensive, punched across the Odon river, headquarters said, and a field dispatch said it had battered on more than a mile beyond the river.

German and allied tanks then clashed in open country a mile northeast of Esquay—itself six miles southwest of Caen and about midway between the Odon and Orne rivers.

Operation Successful

"The operation is very successful and we hold a very strong corridor across the Odon," a staff officer in the field told Associated Press War Correspondent Roger Greene.

Other British units meanwhile forged ahead toward Caen from the north, advancing in the Cambes area several miles above Caen.

Supreme headquarters disclosed that the allies had suffered 40,349 casualties in the first two weeks of the invasion. German losses in killed, wounded, and captured for three weeks of battle were estimated at not less than 70,000.

American casualties were 24,162, more than half the total suffered by the allies and did not include those incurred in the assault on Cherbourg.

Clearing weather gave the allies the opportunity to throw their air superiority into the furious battle raging on the eastern wing of the bridgehead. Yesterday 3,000 sorties were flown.

On the Cherbourg peninsula Americans captured an arsenal which had been holding out and attacked German-held Maupertus airfield to the east of Cherbourg and remnants of Germans trapped at Cap De La Hague.

"Allied forces made progress in cleaning out enemy remnants hemmed in on the horns of the peninsula," said communique No. 45, issued at 11 a. m. today.

Position of Advantage

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery held a position of great potential advantage at Tourville, about six miles southwest of Caen. A swift armored drive from there would cut all Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's communications into Caen and trap a number of Nazi divisions around the city.

Rommel was known to have four tank divisions, two of them seasoned outfits, in this area. The biggest tank battle of the campaign appeared in the offing.

The British advance was made in the hardest kind of fighting. The Germans used tanks extensively and dozens of big German Tiger and Panther tanks were destroyed.

Among the effective air operations was an attack by rocket-firing Typhoons of the RAF which demolished a German army corps headquarters located in a chateau at St. Sauveur-Endelin in the southern part of the Cherbourg peninsula.

A dispatch from 21st army group headquarters said five German generals had been killed thus far in the Normandy campaign. It estimated 100 German tanks had been destroyed and at least 200 knocked out.

Griswold Puts Dewey's Name in Nomination

Governor's Speech Calls Him Man of America's Peacetime Future.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 28 — Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska formally placed Thomas E. Dewey in nomination for the presidency of the United States at the Republican national convention today, declaring the New Yorker will win in November and become the man of the peacetime American future.

"This man will win," said Griswold, "because he is faced in the direction the American people want to go."

Extolling the 42-year-old Dewey, he said the Republicans are offering the nation "youth instead of decadence, vigor instead of complacency, integrity instead of double-dealing, seriousness of purpose instead of flippancy."

Anticipating a Democratic slogan "not to change horses in the middle of the stream," Griswold observed:

"There are now 26 Republican wartime governors. In these states, the people did not change horses; they changed vehicles."

"In naming this man, we are not merely choosing a candidate—we are choosing a nominee who cannot fail to win. The direction of the war is already set and it will not be changed by the coming election. But the election will change our direction here at home."

Without naming President Roosevelt, Griswold said "the past will have its spokesman in this campaign," but the Republicans propose in Dewey to have "the spokesman of the future."

He praised Dewey's record as a racket-busting prosecutor who "broke the alliance between corrupt politics and crime" and declared:

"What a house cleaning this nation needs and what a man to do the job!"

PLANE CARRYING DEWEY TO CHICAGO

By The Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y., June 28—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was to leave by chartered plane about 3 p. m. today for Chicago to accept tonight the Republican nomination for president.

The approximate departure time was fixed soon after the convention delegates had nominated him. The trip was expected to take about four hours.

The governor, his bags packed, listened by radio in the executive mansion to the speech of Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska placing him in nomination.

Gathered at the mansion prepared for a quick trip to Albany airport were those accompanying him to Chicago. They included Mrs. Dewey, several of the governors, aides, newspaperfiften photographers and bodyguards.

Events at Chicago, indicating the nomination of Dewey earlier than expected here, resulted in a decision to speed final preparations for the flight.

The 21-passenger plane will stop at Cleveland to refuel.

Meanwhile the weather bureau predicted the travelers would encounter stormy weather on the trip.

GUAM, ROTA HIT BY U. S. PLANES

60 to 100 American Aircraft Raid Islands South of Saipan.

By The Associated Press

American planes again have raided Japanese-held Guam and Rota islands south of invaded Saipan, Tokyo radio said today.

The unconfirmed report said 60 to 100 American aircraft struck at Guam and that 60 hit Rota to the north Tuesday. These were the third raids reported on these islands in four days, suggesting that the American navy was clearing the way for further expansion of its holdings in the Marianas group, 1,500 miles from Japan.

On Saipan U. S. Marines and infantrymen at last report were meeting stiffer opposition from Japanese garrisons dug in along a mountainous, cave-lined front roughly halving the island. But the last report covered the situation as of two days ago, and Adm. Chester Nimitz' headquarters has been silent since Monday afternoon.

Coupled with the report Guam-Rota roads was an air blow at Yap from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's southwest Pacific theater.

Yap, 250 miles northeast of Palau in the Carolines, was slugged with 35 tons of bombs, presumably to insure that Japanese air forces there are kept from interfering with the Saipan operations 700 miles to the north.

It was Yap's third raid in a week and 30 enemy planes rose to

TUESDAY REGISTERED AS MARION'S HOTTEST

Marion sweltered under its hottest day of 1944 to date when the mercury reached an official 97 yesterday. Several places in the downtown district reported readings of 104 in the shade when sidewalks and pavements became soaked with heat and added to discomfort of shoppers.

Last night brought only mild relief, with the temperature dropping only to 70. Early evening found thousands of Marion residents on porches and in backyards seeking relief from the heat and humidity.

The weather bureau said rain might bring relief tomorrow. The Associated Press reported. Yesterday, four major cities reported new all-time heat records for June 27. Cincinnati had 101.7; Springfield 102. Crops have not started to suffer unduly, officials said, adding they would quickly recover if rain fell soon.

Marion's hottest day of the year up to yesterday was on June 18 when the mercury reached 96.

Ranger from Marion Missing for Six Months Fights Again

Months of hopeful waiting ended happily late last night for Mr. and Mrs. Earl Greenland of 583 North Prospect street when a telegram from the War Department informed them that their son, Dale E. Greenland, 25, technician 5th grade, reported missing in action on Jan. 30, was returned to duty June 16. "Undoubtedly he will communicate with you at an early date concerning his welfare and whereabouts," the telegram stated.

The Marion soldier is one of a handful of survivors of two battalions of United States Fifth Army rangers who spearheaded an attack out of the Anzio beachhead on Cisterna D Littoria early on the morning of last Jan. 30 Officially reported missing in a telegram received by his parents on March 12 the family was heratened a few days later with news from Cpl. Milton Birnbaum, Marion soldier stationed in the Italian sector, in which he told of his fellow service men hearing the name of a Marion boy "Dale or Gale Greenland" being mentioned as a prisoner of war by a German radio propagandist.

Where he has been for the last six months and the circumstances that made it possible for him to return to action were not disclosed to the parents.

The two battalions were trapped when they reached the village on the Apptan way at the base of the Colli Laziali hills and, according to a German announcement at the time about Dewey Holds Key To Willkie's Future in Ranks of G. O. P.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 28 — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey apparently held the key today to a question of whether Wendell L. Willkie and other party critics will go along with a Republican platform pledging American cooperation to prevent future wars by use of "peace forces" and ruling out entry into a "world state."

The party's prospective presidential nominee was expected to amplify, in his acceptance speech, a post-war foreign policy plank shoutingly approved by delegates but sharply criticized earlier by the 1940 standard-bearer and a group of governors.

Upon the ability of the New York governor to satisfy criticisms of Willkie and the governors that the plank is "ambiguous" and offers inadequate hope for post-war peace collaboration, possibly hinges the question of whether the 1940 candidate will go along, bolt, or remain silent during the campaign.

In New York, Willkie refused last night to say what action he would take.

On domestic issues, the platform promised the party would devote itself to "re-establishing liberty at home;" to providing stable employment by encouraging private enterprise freed of government competition.

Remedies for economic and political problems should be based, the statement asserted, "on intelligent cooperation between the federal government and states and local government and the initiative of civil groups, not on the panacea of federal cash."

Making appeals to business, labor and agriculture alike, the platform charged that New Deal "perversion" of labor laws "threatens to destroy collective bargaining completely and permanently."

Farmers were promised an "American market price" to be maintained by commodity loans, price supports and other measures, and government aid in dealing with "unmanageable surpluses" by means of crop adjustment. This probably will go a long way toward removing the principle of crop control as an issue. The

Republicans pledged, however, the elimination of subsidies as a substitute for adequate prices at the market places. They also promised to free farmers from "regimentation and confusing government manipulation and control of farm programs."

Promise to Farmers

In the field of foreign trade, the Republicans promised farmers, livestock producers, workers and industry that they would establish and maintain a "fair protective tariff" on competitive products to the end that the American standard of living would not be impaired through importation of products produced with lower-paid labor.

Other planks pledged aid to small business; tax relief for individuals and corporations when peace returns; a "genuine" western hemisphere good neighbor policy "commanding respect, and not based on reckless squandering of American funds;" rigid economy in government expenditures; extension of social security; and enforcement of laws against monopoly and unfair competition.

REDS CLOSING IN ON MINSK

Great Force of Russian Planes Supports Soviet Drive Toward Germany.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, June 28 — Supported by one of the greatest air attacks ever hurled against the Germans on the Russian front, the Red army closed in from three directions today on Minsk, the capital of White Russia.

Dispatches from the front said that probably never before had Stormoviks (dive-bombers) been thrown with such strength and effectiveness against Nazi armored forces. Hour after hour they were reported searching out German tanks, plastering them in mass with their flying artillery and blasting the way for four armies converging in a great semicircle on the gateway city to Warsaw and Germany.

The northernmost of the three spearheads aimed at Minsk was composed of Gen. Ivan Bagramian's first Baltic army and 36-year-old Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's third White Russian army. In the van of this group were the Stormoviks, fast Yak fighter planes and medium bombers of Lt. Gen. N. P. Papivin, Bagramian's 37-year-old air commander, and Col. Gen. Timofey Krulkin, Cerniakhovsky's youthful aviation chief.

Two of the most astute students of aviation in the Red air force, these young officers were reported throwing clouds of dive-bombers and medium bombers against the German groundtroops and fortifications, blasting bridges and strafing communications lines over a wide area.

Cherniakhovsky, who is himself the youngest army general in Russia, turned westward toward Minsk after capturing Orsha and drove steadily forward. Two big obstacles were in his path—the Berezina river and the city of Borisov.

Field dispatches said Cherniakhovsky's advance units were less than fifty miles from Minsk and about 20 miles east of Borisov. Other units under his command were reported moving rapidly through sparsely settled lake country to the forest area farther north, where they were threatening to outflank Borisov from the northwest in conjunction with Bagramian's troops.

HENGYANG SURROUNLED

CHUNGKING, June 28—The high command indicated tonight that Japanese forces have surrounded Hengyang, vital railway junction in Hunan province. Loss of this city would be the greatest blow to China since the fall of Canton and Hankow in October, 1938.

NEW YORKER GIVEN ALL BUT ONE VOTE ON 1ST ROLL CALL

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, STADIUM, June 28—A 1944 Republican ticket headed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for president, with Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, as his running-mate, was nominated in a whirlwind session today by a national convention that gave Dewey all its votes save one and made it unanimous for Bricker.

A lone delegate from Wisconsin, Grant Ritter, 55-year-old farmer of Beloit, cast his vote for Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur, explaining "he's still my candidate. We didn't get an opportunity to present him."

A committee hurried to telephone Governor Dewey at Albany where he awaited formal notification before going ahead with plans to rush here for his speech of acceptance—tonight, if weather does not interfere with a trip by plane.

At the same time, Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, convention chairman, dispatched the following telegram to Dewey:

"May I on behalf of this great Republican convention advise you of your nomination as president.

"Heartiest congratulations. We know you will make a winning president."

Even before the roll call, shortly after Dewey's name was placed in nomination, by Gov. Dwight Griswold, of Nebraska, Wendell Willkie, the 1940 nominee, whose possible attitude toward a Dewey candidacy was a subject of conjecture, telegraphed Dewey his congratulations from New York. A bulletin over The Associated Press wire at the platform brought word of the gesture.

The 42-year-old mustached gang-buster swamped all opposition as state after state roared out their votes amid the traditional accompaniments of bands, klieg lights and bake-oven heat.

It was Dewey all the way, and the roll-call was just a formality after the riotous, band-led ariske dance which followed nomination of the Michigan-born attorney by Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska.

"Dewey the people's choice" read the big placards carried by his supporters around the jam-packed convention floor.

"What'll We Do, What'll We Do, On a Dew, Dew, Dewey Day?" questioned a brass band, and the delegates took that for their theme.

Governor Bricker, playing the key role in a harmony move that developed overnight, announced his own withdrawal as a presidential candidate as soon as Dewey's name was placed in nomination.

Dramatic Appearance

In a dramatic convention appearance of tremendous applause, at the termination of a rousing demonstration which greeted the nominating speech for Dewey, the tall Ohioan strode to the speaker's stand, looked steadily over the vast reaches of the teeming convention hall and said:

"I am deeply grateful to the many friends who have expressed their loyalty to me, but far more important than that to the cause for which I have tried to stand.

"I am personally more interested—and this comes from the depths of my heart this morning; personally, I am more interested in defeating the new deal philosophy of absolutism which is threatening Americans today; I am more interested in defeating that than I am ever of being president of these United States.

"I understood as you do that it is the overwhelming desire of this convention to nominate a great, vigorous, fighting young American—the noble, the dramatic and the appealing governor of the great state of New York, Thomas E. Dewey."

There were cries of "no" from some of the Bricker boosters, as

"What a magnificent job he

"What amagnificent job he (Dewey) has done as governor.

"He understands not only domestic issues, but their involvement in international issues. The relationships of the world tomorrow are going to be more trying than ever before.

"Tom Dewey will become the gallant leader of the Republican hosts which free America and return America to the Republican democracy next January."

Thanks Ohio Delegation

Bricker thanked the Ohio delegation for its support, saying:

"I am asking them not to present my name to this convention, but to cast their vote along with the host of friends which I have here for Thomas E. Dewey for president of the United States."

No sooner had Bricker turned from the platform than Chairman Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts announced.

"I now introduce Senator Ball of Minnesota." Ball led the campaign in behalf of Lt. Commander Harold E. Stassen for president.

He said:

Bricker Bows Out of Running Throws Support To Gov. Dewey

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO STADIUM, June 28—Governor Bricker of Ohio bowed out of the running for the Republican presidential nomination today and before a demonstrating, shouting convention threw his support to Thomas E. Dewey, Governor of New York.

As the tall, white-haired Ohioan strode to the platform, his supporters rushed into the aisles with his banners, in a noisy demonstration that rivaled the show put on by Dewey delegates when the New Yorker was placed in nomination.

When order finally was achieved, Bricker said: "I am more interested in defeating the New Deal philosophy of absolutism which is threatening America today; I am more interested in defeating that than I am ever of being president of these United States."

Then he said:

"I am asking the Ohio delegation not to present my name to this convention, but to cast their vote along with the host of friends which I have here for Thomas E. Dewey for president of the United States.

Ohio Hoists Dewey Banners

Bricker addressed the perspiring, shouting throng for 15 minutes, and when he finished, Dewey banners were hoisted in the Ohio section.

"The Republican party unselfishly goes into this campaign to redeem free government that the world may live better tomorrow," he said.

Laying down a scathing denunciation of the New Deal, he declared nothing could mean more to the United States than the election of a Republican president and a Republican congress this fall.

"I believe that a Republican victory this fall is necessary not only to preserve the party, but to preserve the two-party system of government. The best thing that could happen in the war effort, the one that could bring about speedier victory  would be an election of a Republican president.

Praise for Dewey

Turning to the nomination of a presidential candidate, he said:

"Thankful as I am for the devotion to the cause which I have tried to represent, I understand it is the overwhelming desire of this convention to nominate a great, a grand, a vigorous young American—the governor of the

Italian Soldier Unit Coming To Marion Engineer Depot

A unit of Italian soldiers, captured more than a year ago while bearing arms against Americans, is to arrive at the Marion Engineer Depot in the near future to take training to help the allied war effort in all ways except combat. The Associated Press has reported in a news dispatch from Camp Perry, O.

The Italians have been lifted from the prisoner of war status to lend their efforts to the allied cause, and are being formed into service units.

Marion Engineer Depot officers said the unit has not yet arrived but is expected soon. The nature of the training to be given at the depot was not disclosed.

The Associated Press, describing a review of the Italian soldiers at Camp Perry by headquarters officers of Camp Perry and the Erie Proving Ground and a contingent of Ohio newspapermen, reported the one-time axis warriors stepped smartly over the parade grounds and stood rigidly at "present arms" as a military band played the national anthem.

At liberty—within post limits—the Italians are undergoing a 90-day training period under individually signed agreements with their foster-Uncle Sam. Companies of the Italian service units already have been assigned to nearby Erie Proving ground, mammoth arms and ammunition testing installations, and to ordnance depots at Toledo and Kingwood, W. Va. Some of them eventually may draw overseas duty, military authorities said, but they will do no fighting under their agreements.

Col. Harold D. Woolley, Camp Perry post commander, said the men are trained by Italian officers imported from other camps in the country, "but they seem to prefer our American officers to their own." There are about 1,000 ISU's in the camp, about 80 per cent of the total Italian war prisoners formerly quartered there.

Issued Class B American khaki uniforms, the Italians wear a green left shoulder brassard with the word "Italy." They are quartered in barracks close by those of U. S. troops, and eat the same food. Their pay is still that of war prisoners—$24 per month—issued one-third in cash and two-thirds in post exchange coupons.

FLARE BURNS FATAL

By The Associated Press

LEBANON, O., June 27—Mrs. Pearl Hedges, 53, died in Blair hospital last night, victim of fire which burned a frame building of the King Powder Co. plant at King's Mills. The blaze started when a dropped flare set off other flares. Ten persons were burned. Cecil Duval, 45, of Morrow, Warren county, and Gertrude Smith, 42, of Hamilton, were in serious condition.

Large Percentage Of People Would Accept DeGaulle

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., June 28—American voters who have given enough thought to the de Gaulle issue to have an opinion on it, vote overwhelmingly in favor of extending diplomatic recognition to the de Gaulle committee as the provisional government of France.

This is revealed in a nationwide survey on the de Gaulle issue which has stirred up a hornet's nest of controversy both in the United States and in England. Newspapers on both sides of the Atlantic have heatedly discussed de Gaulle's action in demanding recognition, some praising him as a heroic spirit who personifies French resistance, others criticizing him as a presumptuous leader who stubbornly refuses to cooperate unless he can have his own way.

While only about half the voters of the United States can correctly identify de Gaulle and still fewer have followed the de Gaulle controversy closely enough to have an opinion, those who do have opinions are 2-to-1 in favor of granting the French leader his demands.

This is shown in the vote on the following question.

"Should the United States recognize the de Gaulle Committee as the provisional government of France?"

The vote of those who are familiar with the situation and have opinions about it follows:

YES	66%
NO	34

The argument put forth most frequently by voters who want to see de Gaulle be recognized is that he has proved a loyal ally to our cause in fighting the Germans.

Those who oppose recognition name the following reasons most frequently: "De Gaulle hasn't been chosen officially by the French nation ...How can we be sure the French themselves want him?....We should wait till after the war, it's too early now ... De Gaulle has aspirations of a dictator ...He is too interested in playing politics."

Author Visits Two Farms in Morrow Co.

Edward Faulkner, author of the book, "Plowman's Folly," spent Thursday visiting the farms of three of the cooperators of the Morrow County Headwaters Soil Conservation district. He conducted an interview with James P. Watson and Lemoine D. Rinehart who established trash mulch seedings on their farms in Franklin township. Another interview was held with Paul B. Radio transcriptions of the interviews were made at both farms and will be played over a Cleveland station in the near future.

—— Invasion Weapons ——

The 90 mm Anti-Aircraft

Associated Press Features

Enemy airmen have been well acquainted with the powers of America's accurate, hard-hitting 90-mm anti-aircraft gun. This weapon was used widely by Fifth Army gunners in Italy who, within three months, were credited with destroying 349 aircraft in addition to 242 "probables."

Moved by a towing tractor,

the gun has a range of 10,000 to 30,000 feet and a rate of fire of about 25 rounds per minute. It is capable of traversing in a complete circle, and of elevating to an almost vertical angle.

Fired by a 10-man crew, the gun fires both high explosive and armor piercing shells. The gun also is effective for use with the field artillery.

Playgrounds List 3,305 Attendance

Attendance at seven city playgrounds last week in the summer-long Marion recreation program totaled 3,305, Joseph Petrich, recreation supervisor, reported today.

Glenwood school had the top turnout in the second week of the program with an attendance of 819 boys and girls registered. Attendance at the other playgrounds was Lincoln park 700, McKinley park 688, Oakland school 240, Mark street 304, Forest Lawn 278 and Silver street 276.

At Glenwood school a few adults are beginning to participate in the evening activities. A picnic will be held Thursday with games, contests and relay races.

Popularity of tennis is increasing at Lincoln park. However, more participants in this sport can be taken care of. Mark street school has followed the example of Glenwood in organizing a safety patrol to aid in the distribution of equipment, promote safety to other children and help keep the playground clean. A special game period has also been organized at Mark street to take place a 2 p. m. Group singing is proving popular and the children and director are developing a theme song for their own playground.

CONTROL OF GARDEN PESTS DISCUSSED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 28—A plant specialist at Ohio State university said today that since each type of pest, whether insect or disease, requires a specific poison or antidote, victory gardeners should know what they are trying to kill or the remedy may be worse than the disease.

Victor H. Ries, professor of floriculture and director of the Ohio victory garden program, said gardeners should determine whether bugs are leaf chewers or sap suckers before proceeding with a cure.

Insects that are actually eating the plants, like caterpillars and worms, are easy to control by putting on arsenate of lead or calcium arsenate, he said. On the other hand, plant lice which do not eat the plant but suck its juices, are not bothered by such poisons, so they must be killed by a so-called "contact" spray.

Nicotine Recommended

Nicotine, a highly-concentrated tobacco juice, many brands of which are available, is best for this treatment, he declared.

Ries warned, however, that it is not practical to mix rotenone dust to use as a spray, since it would have to be so thick it would not pass through the equipment if it were made lethal strength. Better to put it on as a dust, he advised.

For black beetles that chew up asters and dahlias he advised a dust or spray material containing flourine.

These sprays not only kill the insect when he eats them, but they bother his feet, Ries said. When he licks his irritated toes he swallows the poison and becomes another dead bug.

In addition to the chewing insects and the sap suckers, there are many other unsuspected pests in the garden, he warned. Slugs, or shell-less snails, are among the most troublesome, since they feed at night and are not easily spotted.

If your plants are eaten off at the ground, if holes are cut in your leaves, prowl around some night with a flashlight. If you find the snails, the control measure is simple.

Method of Mixing

You mix one level teaspoonful of paris green with a quart of bran, then in a pint of water you put two tablespoons of any kind of syrup, pour this over the bran and paris green and mix thoroughly.

This mixture is scattered very thinly in the evenings—so thin that 5 pounds of bran will cover a half acre—and will knock off slugs, sow bugs and cutworms, to mention just a few of the night feeders. If it is placed out in the morning grasshoppers will eat it.

Plant disease, however, is treated differently.

The basic material for most dusts and sprays is sulphur. It is applied as a dusting sulphur, especially finely ground for the purpose, or a wettable sulphur is available for use in a water solution as a spray.

One of the quickest and best methods of discovering what is really bothering your crops—both vegetables and flowers—is found in bulletin 76 of the agriculture extension service of Ohio State university, which is free for the asking. It may also be obtained from all county agents.

Amazing results in building STURDY BODIES!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach
2—Energize your body with RICH RED BLOOD!

YOUNG people, especially those of grammar and high school age, are prone to be deficient in stomach digestive juices and red-blood.

A growing person who is operating on a 65 to 70% healthy blood volume or stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped.

In such cases Nature needs extra help. Organic troubles or focal infection, if they exist, must be corrected. Tissue food must be digested and rich, red-blood must be present to build sturdy bodies.

SSS Tonic is especially designed (1) to promote the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICES in the stomach which digest the food so the body can make proper use of it in tissue building and repair and (2) to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient.

These two important results enable the body to make use of the food as Nature intended. Thus you may gain keen appetite . . . firm flesh . . . body energy . . . mental alertness!

Build Sturdy Health and Help America Win

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits SSS Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." At drug stores in 10 and 20 oz. sizes. ©S.S.S. Co.

HEALTH QUIZ

	YES	NO
Do you have poor digestion?	☐	☐
Do you feel headachy after eating?	☐	☐
Do you get sour or upset easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel tired—listless?	☐	☐

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested, lie sour and heavy within you.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's, taken as directed, aid digestion after Nature's own order. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25¢. You'll be glad you did.

Reporter Finds Traveling in Navy Convoy Not Pleasure Trip

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN
AP War Correspondent

ABOARD A CONVOY TO [illegible], June 12—(Delayed)—[illegible] European war outclasses this [illegible] in numbers, in being [illegible] places you've heard [illegible] before, in having more sol[illegible] from your home town in it. [illegible] when it comes to convoys, [illegible] wars can't be compared. [illegible] there they are bigger, long[illegible] and much, much closer [illegible] hubs of hell in tempera[illegible] [illegible] anybody, from admirals [illegible] actually enjoy one of them, [illegible] for hospital time in [illegible].

[illegible] of the men on this ship, for example, have been aboard [illegible] many days now, and we're [illegible] Saipan yet. At first read[illegible], that may not sound too bad [illegible] cruise, with nothing much to [illegible] among story book islands [illegible] bright blue sky.

But these men are living in the [illegible] i.e., on iron cots strung from the overheads, four deep, with a passage about two feet wide between the rows. A cot is a piece of canvas strung from an [illegible] frame with a depression in the centers as a memento to the [illegible] man who had it last trip. The [illegible] has a ventilation system of sorts, but something always happens. If some bright lad doesn't hang his sweaty shirt over the outlet, somebody above decks invariably clogs the inlet with his laundry or his own posterior.

Also, one of the sewage lines sprang a leak a day or so ago. It's repaired now.

Bathing aboard Pacific transports follow the pattern of transports everywhere but goes on longer. That is, there never is enough water. Some ships run water to showers and wash bowls for half an hour, twice a day. With luck and pushing a man can shave about every other day.

This ship has no limit on water hours (which makes it unique) but solves its limitation problem with special shower heads containing only a very few small holes. If the bather soaps so heavily that he can't get it off with the resultant thin spray, why that's too bad.

As you can see, people in the tropics think about water a lot.

Transport rules vary according to the ideas of skippers. All of them black out their decks at night, but one blacks out completely, above and below. No lights burn anywhere except dim red bulbs, so no one reads, plays cards or writes letters after dusk. Dull, that's what.

At one time, sun bathing was commonly prohibited, but experience has changed this rule. Troop commanders discovered men going ashore into battle had more resistance to heat prostration and sunburn if they were tanned to start with. So now officers and men sun themselves on transport decks religiously—and on order.

Laundry Is Problem

Laundry, like everything else, takes on a different importance on this trip than on one of a few days as in the European theater. Generally speaking, ship laundries can do nothing for passenger troops, little for their own people. So tablecloths in wardrooms go dirty, sheets get gray and the soldier or marine below decks does what he can for himself. Traditionally, sailors drop a bucket overside for salt water, haul it up, scrub dungarees on the deck. Marines frown on so much work, simply tie their clothes tightly to a long line, toss it overside and let the clothes dangle in the bow waves of the ship, bouncing merrily up and down. The Marines claim they get their clothes cleaner with less effort—if they don't lose them.

Oddly enough, enlisted men generally eat as well or better than ship and passenger officers. The reason is that the enlisted men's mess is reduced to essentials—men stand in line with trays, take their food cafeteria style and carry it off somewhere to eat it while it is still hot. But transport officers — perhaps resenting still that nameless passenger who once referred to transports as "the slums of the navy" —try to maintain the old traditions of wardroom service. This gets a little tough when neither tablecloths nor the mess boys' jackets can be laundered, the water faucets don't work and the wardroom built to seat seventy has to feed three times that many.

CHIEFS OF CHERBOURG DEFENSE SURRENDER TO YANK. Their forces dead or captured, the chiefs of the German defenses at Cherbourg have given themselves up to the conquering American troops. Maj. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, right, above, commander of the U. S. Seventh army corps that captured the French port, is pictured receiving the surrender of Lieut. Gen. Karl Wilhelm von Schlieben, center, commander of German ground forces defending the port, and Admiral Walter Hennicke, left, commander of naval defenses. U. S. Army Signal Corps Radiophoto.

Agreements with six farmers living in the Morrow county Headwaters Soil Conservation District were approved by the supervisors at a meeting Friday in the courthouse in Mt. The new farmer cooperators are George Sautter of North Bloomfield township, Carroll Lloyd of South Bloomfield, A. E. Hollanshed of Gilead, F. D. Trefz, Karl T. Renz, and Mozier-Augenstein of Westfield township.

Applications for assistance in farm planning were received this month from F. L. and George Jackson of Gilead township, Don Beck of Congress, E. H. Barcus of Bennington, and Merrit J. Nash of Lincoln township. All were approved.

Hecker, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service was directed to proceed with surveys. Mr. Hecker announced that the Bader and Williams Dike in Canaan township is now under construction.

Hobart Sockman, farm planner, who has been receiving training in the Headwaters Soil Conservation District, will leave July 10 for La Crosse, Wis., to attend a training school. He formerly taught vocational agriculture in the Cardington High school.

The C. D. Blubaugh farm near Danville in Knox county, was visited by a group of eleven from the Headwaters district, June 21.

Mr. Blubaugh, a member of the State Soil Conservation District committee, was awarded a master farmers' degree by building up and successfully rejuvenating a run-down farm by following conservation practices in saving the soil and water.

Marion Girl Gets Letter from English War Orphan

The war is responsible for making a new friendship for Miss June Wittibslager, who makes her home with her aunt, Mrs. Ethel Doll of 142 Union street. She has received a letter from an English war orphan. The two girls became acquainted through correspondence when June, writing a letter to an address sent by her cousin, Lowell Wittibslager, who is stationed in England, received an answer from 14-year-old Marjory Matthews.

The English girl is living at a school for war orphans. She evidently gave June's address to a friend, for June received a birthday card from another English girl who signed herself simply Vera. Both girls expressed the wish to come to the United States after the war and were looking forward to meeting their "friend" June.

Two Companies in Ohio's 37th Win Battle Honors

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 28—The war department today announced award of battle honors, in the name of the President, to company E and company F of Ohio's heroic 37th infantry division for "breaking the backbone of the entire enemy offensive on the island of Bougainville last March.

In an initial counterattack against the Japs entrenched on a hilltop, the men of company F clung to dangerous hillside positions all through the night of March 11 under constant mortar and machinegun fire.

The next morning the two companies coordinated in a difficult flanking movement across the fire-swept terrain, using rocket launchers, flame throwers, smoke grenades and other infantry weapons against the Japs.

The action resulted, the war department reported, in the destruction of Japanese forces in that sector and the removal of a major threat to our position."

The Ohioans lost 15 men, the enemy 407, the war department said.

Award of battle honors was made for "the magnificent gallantry, heroism, teamwork and the will-to-win" the men in the two companies displayed and "the tremendously significant part" each took in the counterattack.

We shall seek, in our relations with other nations, conditions calculated to promote world-wide economic stability, not only for the sake of the world, but also to the end that our own people may enjoy a high level of employment in an increasingly prosperous world.

We shall keep the American people informed concerning all agreements with foreign nations. In all of these undertakings we favor the widest consultation of the gallant men and women in our armed forces who have a special right to speak with authority in behalf of the security and liberty for which they fight. We shall sustain the Constitution of the United States in the attainment of our international aims; and pursuant to the Constitution of the United States any treaty or agreement to attain such aims made on behalf of the United States with any other nation or any association of nations, shall be made only by and with the advice and consent of the Senate of the United States provided two-thirds of the senators present concur.

We shall at all times protect the essential interests and resources of the United States.

Western Hemisphere

We shall develop Pan-American solidarity. The citizens of our neighboring nations in the western hemisphere are like ourselves, Americans. Cooperation with them shall be achieved through mutual agreement and without interference in the internal affairs of any nation. Our policy should be a genuine good neighbor policy commanding their respect, and not one based on reckless squandering of American funds by overlapping agencies.

Postwar Preparedness

We favor the maintenance of postwar military forces and establishments of ample strength for the successful defense and the safety of the United States, its possessions and outposts, for the maintenance of the Monroe Doctrine, and for meeting any military commitments determined by Congress.

We favor the peace time maintenance and strengthening of the National Guards under state control with federal training and equipment as now provided in the national defense act.

Domestic Policy

We shall adopt a program to put men to work in peace industry as promptly as possible and with special attention to those who have made sacrifice by serving in the armed forces. We shall take government out of competition with private industry and terminate rationing, price fixing and all other emergency powers. We shall promote the fullest stable employment through private enterprise.

The measures we propose shall avoid federalization of government activities, to the end that our states, schools and cities shall be free, shall avoid delegation of legislative and judicial power to administrative agencies to the end that the people's representatives in Congress shall be independent and in full control of legislative policy; and shall avoid, subject to war necessities, detailed regulation of farmers, workers, business men and consumers, to the end that the individual shall be free.

The remedies we propose shall be based on intelligent co-operation between the federal government, states and local government and the initiative of civic groups, not on the panacea of federal cash.

Four years more of New Deal policy would centralize all power in the President, and would daily subject every act of every citizen to regulation by his henchmen, and this country could remain a republic only in name. No problem exists which cannot be solved by American methods. We have no need of either the Communistic or the Fascist technique.

Security

Our goal is to prevent hardship and poverty in America. That goal is attainable by reason of the productive ability of free American labor, industry and agriculture, if supplemented by a system of social security on sound principles.

We pledge our support of the following:

1. Extension of the existing old-age and unemployment insurance systems to all employes not already covered.

2. The return of the public employment-office system to the states at the earliest possible time, financed as before Pearl Harbor.

3. A careful study of federal-state programs for maternal and child health, dependent children, and assistance to the blind, with a view to strengthening these programs.

4. The continuation of these and other programs relating to health, and the stimulation by federal aid of state plans to make medical and hospital service available to those in need without disturbing doctor-patient relationship or socializing medicine.

5. The stimulation of state and local plans to provide decent low-cost housing properly financed by the federal housing administration, or otherwise, when such housing cannot be supplied or financed by private sources.

Labor

The Republican party is the historical champion of free labor. Under Republican administrations American manufacturing developed, and American workers attained the most progressive standards of living of any wrokers in the world. Now the nation owes those workers a debt of gratitude for their magnificent productive effort in support of the war.

Regardless of the professed friendship of the New Deal for the working man, the fact remains that under the New Deal American economic life is being destroyed.

The New Deal has usurped selfish and partisan control over the functions of government agencies where labor relationships are concerned. The continued perversion of the Wagner act by the New Deal menaces the purposes of the law and threatens to destroy collective bargaining completely and permanently.

The long series of executive orders and bureaucratic decrees reveal a deliberate purpose to substitute for contractual agreements of employers and employes the political edicts of a New Deal bureaucracy. Labor would this remain organized only for the convenience of the New Deal in enforcing its orders and inflicting its whims upon labor and industry.

We condemn the conversion of administrative boards, ostensibly set up to settle industrial disputes, into instruments for putting into effect the financial and economic theories of the New Deal.

We condemn the freezing of wage rates as arbitrary levels and the binding of men to their jobs as destructive to the advancement of a free people. We condemn the repeal by executive order of the laws secured by the Republican party to abolish "contract labor" and peonage. We condemn the gradual but effective creation of a labor front as but one of the New Deal's steps toward a totalitarian state.

We pledge an end to political trickery in the administration of labor laws and the handling of labor disputes; and equal benefits on the basis of equality to all labor in the administration of labor controls and laws, regardless of political affiliation.

The Department of Labor has been emasculated by the New Deal. Labor bureaus, agencies and committees are scattered far and wide, in Washington and throughout the country, and have no semblance of scystematic or responsible organization. All governmental labor activities must be placed under the direct authority and responsibility of the secretary of labor. Such labor bureaus as are not performing a substantial and definite service in the interest of labor must be abolished.

The secretary of labor should be a representative of labor. The office of the secretary of labor was created under a Republican president, William Howard Taft. It was intended that a representative of labor should occupy this Cabinet office. The present administration is the first to disregard this intention.

The Republican party accepts the purposes of the national labor relations act, the wage and hour act, the social security act and all other federal statutes designed to promote and protect the welfare of American working men and women, and we promise a fair and just administration of these laws.

American well-being is indivisible. Any national program which injuries the national economy inevitably injuries the wage-earner. The American labor movement and the Republican party, while continuously striving for the betterment of labor's status, reject the communistic and New Deal concept that a single group can benefit while the general economy suffers.

Agriculture

We salute the American farmers, their wives and families for their magnificent job of war-time production and their contribution to the war effort, without which victory could not be assured. They have accomplished this in spite of labor shortages, a bungled and inexcusable machinery program and confused, unreliable, impractical price and production administration.

Abundant production is the best security against inflation. Governmental policies in war and in peace must be practical and efficient with freedom from regimentation by an impractical Washington bureaucracy in order to assure independence of operation and bountiful production, fair and equitable market prices for farm products, and a sound program for conservation and use of our soil and natural resources. Educational progress and the social and economic stability and well-being of the farm family must be a prime national purpose.

For the establishment of such a program we propose the following:

1. A Department of Agriculture under practical and experienced administration free from regimentation and confusing government manipulation and control of farm programs.

2. An American market price to the American farmer and protection of such a price by means of support prices, commodity loans, or a combination thereof, together with such other economic means as will assure an income to agriculture that is fair and equitable in comparison with labor, business and industry. We oppose subsidies as a substitute for fair markets.

3. Disposition of surplus war commodities in an orderly manner without destroying markets or continued production and without benefit to speculative profiteers.

4. The control and disposition of future surpluses by means of (a) new uses developed through constant research, (b) vigorous development of foreign markets, (c) efficient domestic distribution to meet all domestic requirements and (d) arrangements which will enable farmers to make necessary adjustments in production of any given basic crop only if domestic surpluses should become abnormal and exceed manageable proportions.

5. Intensified research to discover new crops and new profitable uses for existing crops.

6. Support of the principle of bona fide farmer-owned and farmer-operated co-operatives.

7. Consolidation of all government farm credit under a non-partisan board.

8. To make life more attractive on the family type farm through development of rural boards, sound extension of rural electrification service to the farm and elimination of basic evils of tenancy wherever they exist.

9. Serious study of and search for a sound program of good insurance with emphasis upon establishing a self-supporting program.

10. A comprehensive program of soil, forest, water and wildlife conservation and development, and sound irrigation projects, administered as far as possible at state and regional levels.

Business and Industry

We give assurance now to restore peace-time industry at the earliest possible time, using every care to avoid discrimination between different sections of the country, (a) by prompt settlement of war contracts with early payment of government obligations, and disposal of surplus inventories, and (b) by disposal of surplus government plans, equipment and supplies, with due consideration to small buyers and with care to prevent monopoly and injury to existing agriculture and industry.

Small business is the basis of American enterprise. It must be preserved. If protected against discrimination and afforded equality of opportunity throughout the nation, it will become the most potent factor in providing employment. It must also be aided by changes in taxation, by eliminating excessive and repressive regulation and government competition and by providing simpler and cheaper methods for obtaining venture capital necessary for growth and expansion.

For the protection of the public, and for the security of millions of holders of policies of insurance in mutual and private companies, we insist upon strict and exclusive regulation and supervision of the business of insurance by the several states where local conditions are best known and where local needs can best be met.

We favor the re-establishment and maintenance, as early as military considerations will permit, of a sound and adequate American merchant marine under private ownership and management.

The Republican party pledges itself to foster the development of such strong privately owned air transportation systems and communications systems as will best serve the interests of the American people.

The federal government should plan a program for flood control, inland waterways and other economically justifiable public works, and prepare the necessary plans in advance, so that construction may proceed rapidly in emergency and in times of reduced employment. We urge that states and local governments pursue the same policy with reference to highways and other public works within their jurisdiction.

Taxation and Finance

As soon as the war ends the present rates of taxation on individual incomes, on corporatations and on consumption should be reduced as far as is consistent with the payment of the normal expenditures of the government in the postwar period. We reject the theory of restoring prosperity through government spending and deficit financing.

We shall eliminate from the budget all wasteful and unnecessary expenditures and exercise the most rigid economy.

It is essential that federal and state tax structures be more effectively co-ordinated to the end that state tax sources be not unduly impaired.

We shall maintain the value of the American dollar and regard the payment of government debt as an obligation of honor which prohibits any policy leading to the depreciation of the currency. We shall reduce that debt as soon as economic conditions make such reduction possible.

Control of the currency must be restored to Congress by repeal of existing legislation which gives the President unnecessary and dangerous powers over our currency.

Foreign Trade

We assure American farmers, live stock producers, workers and industry that we will establish and maintain a fair protective tariff on competitive products so that the standards of living of our people shall not be impaired through the importation of commodities produced abroad by labor or producers functioning upon lower standards than our own.

If the postwar world is to be properly organized, a great extension of world trade will be necessary to repair the wastes of war and build an enduring peace. The Republican party, always remembering that its primary obligation which must be fulfilled, is to our own workers, our own farmers and our own industry, pledges that it will join with others in leadership in every co-operative effort to remove unnecessary and destructive barriers to international trade.

We will always bear in mind that the domestic market is America's greatest market and that tariffs which protect it against foreign competition should be modified only by reciprocal bilateral trade agreements approved by Congress.

Relief and Rehabilitation

We favor the prompt extension of relief and emergency assistance to the people of the liberated countries without duplication and conflict between government agencies.

We favor immediate feeding of the starving children of our allies and friends in the Nazi-dominated countries and we condemn the New Deal administration for its failure, in the face of humanitarian demands, to make any effort to do this.

We favor assistance by direct credits in reasonable amounts to liberated countries to enable them to buy from this country the goods necessary to revive their economic systems.

Bureaucracy:

The national administration has become a sprawling, overlapping bureaucracy. It is undermined by executive abuse of power, confused lines of authority, duplication of effort, inadequate fiscal controls, loose personnel practices and an attitude of arrogance previously unknown in our history.

The times cry out for the restoration of harmony in government, for a balance of legislative and executive responsibility, for efficiency and economy, for pruning and abolishing unnecessary agencies and personnel, for effective fiscal and personnel controls and for an entirely new spirit in our federal government.

We pledge an administration wherein the president, acting in harmony with congress, will effect these necessary reforms and raise the federal service to a high level of efficiency and competence.

We insist that limitations must be placed upon spending by government corporations of vast sums never appropriated by congress, but made available by directives, and that their accounts should be subject to audit by the general accounting office.

Two-Term Limit for President:

We favor an amendment to the Constitution providing that no person shall be president of the United States for more than two terms of four years each.

Equal Rights:

We favor submission by congress to the states of an amendment to the Constitution providing for equal right for men and women. We favor job opportunities in the post-war world open to men and women alike without discrimination in rate of pay because of sex.

Veterans:

The Republican party has always supported suitable measures to reflect the nation's gratitude and to discharge its duty toward the veterans of all wars.

We approve, have supported and have aided in the enactment of laws which provide for re-employment of veterans of this war in their old positions, for mustering out pay, for pensions for widows and orphans of such veterans killed or disabled, for rehabilitation of disabled veterans, for temporary unemployment benefits, for education and vocational training, and for assisting veterans in acquiring homes and farms and in establishing themselves in business.

We shall be diligent in remedying defects in veterans' legislation and shall insist upon efficient administration of all measures for the veteran's benefit.

Racial and Religious Tolerance:

We unreservedly condemn the injection into American life of appeals to racial or religious prejudice.

We pledge an immediate congressional inquiry to ascertain the extent to which mistreatment, segregation and discrimination against Negroes who are in our armed forces are impairing morale and efficiency and the adoption of corrective legislation.

We pledge the establishment by federal legislation of a permanent fair employment practice commission.

Anti-Poll Tax:

The payment of any poll tax should not be a condition of voting in federal elections and we favor immediate submission of a constitutional amendment for its abolition.

Anti-Lynching:

We favor legislation against lynching and pledge our sincere efforts in behalf of its early enactment.

Indians:

We pledge an immediate, just and final settlement of all Indian claims between the government and the Indian citizenship of the nation. We will take politics out of the administration of Indian affairs.

Problems of the West:

We favor a comprehensive program of reclamation projects for our arid and semiarid states, with recognition and full protection of the rights and interests of those states in the use and control of water for present and future irrigations and other beneficial consumptive uses.

We favor (a) exclusion from this country of live stock and fresh and chilled meat from countries harboring foot and mouth disease or rinderpest; (b) full protection of our fisheries whether by domestic regulation or treaties; (c) consistent with military needs, the prompt return to private ownership of lands acquired for war purposes; (d) withdrawal or acquisition of lands for establishment of national parks, monuments and wild life refuges, only after due regard to local problems and under closer controls to be established by Congress; (e) restoration of the long-established public land policy which provides opportunity of ownership by citizens to promote the highest land use; (f) full development of our forests on the basis of cropping and sustained yield; co-operation with private owners for conservation and fire protection; (g) the prompt reopening of mines which can be operated by miners and workers not subject to military service and which have been closed by bureaucratic denial of labor or material; (h) adequate stockpiling of war minerals and metals for possible future emergencies; (i) continuance, for tax purposes, of adequate depletion allowances on oil, gas and minerals; (j) administration of laws relating to oil and gas on the public domain to encourage exploratory operations to meet the public need; (k) continuance of present federal laws on mining claims on the public domain, good faith administration thereof, and we state our opposition to the plans of the secretary of the interior to substitute a leasing system; and (l) larger representation in the federal government of men and women especially familiar with western problems.

Hawaii

Hawaii, which shares the nation's obligations equally with the several states, is entitled to the fullest measure of home rule looking toward statehood; and to equality with the several states in the rights of their citizens and in the application of all our national laws.

Alaska

Alaska is entitled to the fullest measure of home rule looking toward statehood.

Puerto Rico

Statehood is a logical aspiration of the people of Puerto Rico who were made citizens of the United States by Congress in 1917; legislation affecting Puerto Rico, in so far as feasible, should be in harmony with the realization of that aspiration.

Palestine

In order to give refuge to millions of distressed Jewish men, women and children driven from their homes by tyranny, we call for the opening of Palestine to their unrestricted immigration and land ownership, so that in accordance with the full intent and purpose of the Balfour Declaration of 1917 and the resolution of a Republican Congress in 1922, Palestine may be constituted as a free and democratic commonwealth. We condemn the failure of the President to insist that the mandatory of Palestine carry out the provision of the Balfour Declaration and of the mandate while he pretends to support them.

Free Press and Radio

In times like these, when whole peoples have found themselves shackled by governments which denied the truth, or, worse, dealt in half-truths or withheld the facts from the public, it is imperative to the maintenance of a free America that the press and radio be free and that full and complete information be available to Americans. There must be no censorship except to the extent required by war necessity.

We insistently condemn any tendency to regard the press or the radio as instruments of the administration and the use of government publicity agencies for partisan ends. We need a new radio law which will define, in clear and unmistakable language, the role of the Federal Communications Commission.

All channels of news must be kept open with equality of access to information at the source. If agreement can be achieved with foreign nations to establish the same principles, it will be a valuable contribution to future peace.

Vital facts must not be withheld.

We want no more Pearl Harbor reports.

Good Faith:

The acceptance of the nominations made by this convention carries with it, as a matter of private honor and public faith, an undertaking by each candidate to be true to the principles and program herein set forth.

Conclusion:

The essential question at trial in this nation is whether man can organize together in a highly industrialized society, succeed, and still be free. That is the essential question at trial throughout the world today.

In this time of confusion and strife, when moral values are being crushed on every side, we pledge ourselves to uphold with all our strength the Bill of Rights, the Constitution and the law of the land. We so pledge ourselves that the American tradition may stand forever as the beacon light of civilization.

The Unsettled Climate of Freedom

HERBERT HOOVER'S listeners, knowing he no longer is a menace to anyone's political ambitions now follow his words with more sympathy and understanding than sometimes have been used. Mr. Hoover has become one of the ablest philosophers of freedom.

It is too bad he didn't say more in his speech to the Republicans Tuesday night about the unsettled climate in which freedom must be maintained. He did say that the "hard task of government, and the really liberal task, is to build self-reliance, stimulate initiative, and thereby create men and women of energy, of dignity and of independence"—but he did not lay enough stress on the responsibility of people, themselves. Freedom cannot be maintained by government, unless freedom's circumstances are preserved by the people.

Sen. Taft a few days ago mentioned that New Deal philosophy has been adopted to the extent that local planning for post-war projects usually starts with the question of how much money can be milked from the federal government—a statement of obvious fact. If Republicans win control of the federal government this year, it will become their responsibility to restore local rule at the expense of telling local interests to raise their own money. They should realize now that it won't be easy—and they should realize it while they are applauding Mr. Hoover's latest repetition of his theme that freedom is worth saving. He isn't talking through his hat, and they either should understand what he is driving at, or save their applause for the me-too people who quit worrying about freedom years ago.

Coordinated Offensive

RUSSIA has begun to move west. Lacking only further moves in the cross-channel invasion, the coordinated offensive which the Allies have been preparing for more than two years is finally rolling.

Germany's military problem now is acute in every quarter. There is no front on which it can mark time. The Allies are driving from the east and west. They are coming up from the south. Their air power shadows Germany from above.

The most of buffer states on Germany's borders is being bridged. Russia is in Poland, the Allies are in France and far into Italy. The rest is a question of time.

No one making such an appraisal fails to realize victory is not imminent. Fighting men in the field are likely to criticize civilians for seeming to jump at conclusions which ignore obstacles that loom large in military operations. But civilian confidence is forgivable. It can be understood at last how Germany may be defeated this year, because the forces to do it are in motion.

Recess With a Purpose

CONGRESS probably will accomplish more in the recess period it is taking from now till the middle of July than it could accomplish by staying in session.

Contrary to the jibes and jeers of critics who seem to think the congressional function can be performed only in the capitol building, representatives and senators need to keep touch with what goes on outside Washington, too. It might be a good idea if some way could be found to give the executive branch of the government a recess, too.

In other words, the highest rule of a public official in a representative democracy is to represent, a public service which calls for vastly more than tending to business in Washington. The point is too obvious to be worth making if it were not for the persistent smear campaign to discredit congress for everything it does—even for taking a recess to attend the political conventions which are the backbone of the nation's political system.

Frenchmen for France

PENDING the outcome of the De Gaulle issue in circles outside France, Frenchmen inside France are proceeding to fight Germans without benefit of legalism, according to reliable reports. It seems probable their activities may be accounting in large part for Germany's apparent frustration in dealing with the invasion. They are a formidable military force behind enemy lines.

Throughout the De Gaulle argument it has been evident that France's ultimate strength lay not in the strength of one faction as against another, but in the strength of Frenchmen who were for France. When their nation has been redeemed, then it will be time to deal again with the ambitions of politicians—a preoccupation which had been pursued so far in 1940 that it found many Frenchmen more interested in struggling against each other than against the common enemy poised to take advantage of their weakness.

News Behind the News

Warren Believed To Have Been Given Assurance West Coast Would Get Favors.

By PAUL MALLON

The following column by Paul Mallon was written before Governor Warren of California announced at Chicago last night that he could not accept the vice presidential nomination if it were offered to him.

CHICAGO, June 28—The papers said California Governor Earl Warren came smiling into the Dewey fold—but not without an understanding.

What finally brought him around was a matter of Pacific Coast business. It seems the golden west is worried about losing the war businesses it developed there. The administration was pictured, by the Dewey managership triumvirate at least, as planning to abandon the Kaiser Steel Mills, the Utah Mills and the big shipyards, aviation and other industries as soon as peace is declared (plans to that effect are actually supposed to exist in Washington).

As a result of dickering here, the Pacific Coast war businesses will be protected if Mr. Dewey is elected—and Warren will have charge of that matter in the Dewey administration.

Price Not High

The price is not high considering what Dewey's chances of election would be without Warren. A million new workers have come into that state since the war, mostly the unskilled and leftish type. The number of Negroes in San Francisco has increased amazingly from somewhere around 2,200 to about 35,000.

The CIO political action group is promoting leftwing politics hotly and heavily in the state, being the only crowd out there with any noticeable money.

Warren has no state machine in the usual sense. His organization is largely a personal following. Clearly only he could hope to upset the almost 2 to 1 registration in favor of the Democrats which leads people to call California a Democratic state, although both houses of its legislature are Republican and registration does not mean much out there under the peculiar dual primary system (all candidates running in both Democratic and Republic primaries.)

With Warren on the ticket, however, Dewey's November chances can be measured reasonably as no better than even for that 25 vote electrical prize of the west.

Bricker Campaign Clean

Bricker suffered bruises when the Dewey bandwagon ran over him. His friends pictured him as justly injured by what he thought was the ruthlessness of the Dewey drivers. And what Brieker said publicly about Dewey in his mild way (not being straightforward in the campaign, not coming out into the open, etc.) he feels doubly at heart.

But while Dewey won the show, Bricker won the glory of the convention. In his defeat, he won many personal friends. People liked the way he handled himself.

What impressed me was that his campaign was conducted without a nasty word against anyone, even Dewey. I do not recall a presidential candidate in such circumstances ever having offered as clean a convention bid. The reason he lost is plain.

For the last year since his earliest mention he always had too little, too late. Like Warren he has not much money and had no headquarters organization comparable in experience to Dewey's. All he ever had behind him were a few good friends from Ohio like Roy Moore the publisher.

Poison Against Dewey

Worst of the hates was a movement to make Dewey appear as "a tool of the Jews." A fiery letter writer, it was discovered, had sent a few hundred burning words to each delegate by mail calling Dewey "Tommy the cantor" and actually charging that he rose from cantor in a synagogue.

The nearest the letter got to the truth was in one charge that Dewey had raised money for a synagogue, and this was not close enough to be within the realm of accuracy. Dewey once was designated an assistant to raise money for a synagogue purpose under Gov. Lehman's regime.

Another of these perspiring letter boys also routed to each delegate by mail that Dewey plotted the destruction of the country, being secretly in league with Roosevelt and the New Deal. That will be news to Mr. Roosevelt.

Still a third said he was the candidate of the American Newspaper Guild and the leftists and Communists therein who promoted him. (Sidney Hillman and the Communist CIO political action committee please note, and curtail expenditures immediately.)

The Dewey managers were somewhat nettled by the flow of such guff, which is really only an inconsequential manifestation of these screw-ballish times. But it was a forecast of what to expect in the campaign.

When Nations Get Together

Alliance After Napoleonic Wars Recalled.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S announcement that his administration's blueprint for postwar security includes a council of the "four major nations and a suitable number of other nations" has revived interest in the Quadruple alliance set up after the defeat of Napoleon.

The quadruple alliance must not be confused with the Holy alliance, drawn up at the same time. The latter, backed by Czar Alexander I of Russia pledged rulers to follow Christian principles in dealing with each other and their peoples. It was signed ultimately by all the great rulers, except the king of England, the Pope and the sultan of Turkey, but had no practical value, except as ideological backing for the Quadruple alliance.

This alliance, forged by the necessity of combining to defeat Napoleon, was a potent force in maintaining the settlements after the Congress of Vienna, which made over the map of Europe. It was completed in November, 1815, by Austria, Russia, Prussia and England—the four great powers which had united to defeat the French dictator. The four powers included in President Roosevelt's modern counterpart are the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China. Thus, Mr. Roosevelt proposes in effect a triple alliance, because China is only potentially a great power at this time.

There have been many quadruple and triple alliances in Europe, but for comparison the combination formed after Napoleon's defeat is most useful. In some respects, the motive was the same as that now being proposed for a new combination; it was to stabilize a world weary of war, for one thing.

Its guiding spirit was Prince Metternich, foreign minister and later chancellor of Austria. Metternich was stubbornly opposed to any change in the status quo, whether in government, thought, science or education.

METTERNICH used the right of intervention implied in the alliance to put down revolutions in Spain, Naples and Piedmont. When the Bourbons had been reestablished in France, they lent their prestige to the suppression of all rebellious threats.

England however, found the atmosphere of suppression intolerable; its view was that the alliance should guarantee territory, not forms of government, and the English were sympathetic with some of the revolutions the alliance was suppressing.

It is also plain, by hindsight that the English resented the eclipse of their prestige by the power Metternich was wielding. In 1823, England threw its weight against the alliance in the conflict over the latter's plan to subjugate revolting Spanish colonies in South America by backing this government's declaration of the now famous Monroe doctrine, closing the new world to old world influence.

Another blow for the Quadruple alliance came when Greece won independence from Turkey, with support from Russia, England and France. Then came the revolutions of 1830 in which the French deposed Charles X in favor of Louis Philippe and the Belgians won separation from the Netherlands. The duchy of Poland revolted against Russia.

Metternich dared not intervene in France or Belgium, lest the French give aid to the Poles. He had his hands full with insurrections in Italy. Prussia was putting down revolts at the same time.

The Quadruple alliance was through in 1848. The French set up a republic. Revolts seethed in Germany, Italy, Hungary and Austria, itself. The emperor of Austria abdicated and Metternich fled to England.

It has been demonstrated again that no combination of power permanently can maintain peace settlements based on inequities and supported by governments with conflicting views and purposes.

Record of Blood Banks Shows Trend of News.

By JACK STINNETT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON—You can check the records of the nation's vital blood banks and tell at a glance how the war is going—or how the folks at home think it's going.

Bad or exciting war news lines donors up like theater crowds before the Red Cross blood centers. But if there's talk of peace they just go ahead and go to the theater, or someplace else. The result is a problem for the blood plasma laboratories, geared to handle a steady, even flow of donations week in and week out.

"We're in a business set up on assembly line standards," says Dr. G. Canby Robinson, national director of the blood donor service. "But we're dependent for our raw product upon human emotions."

Outstanding Example

Take invasion morning as an example:

News of the American landings in France almost swamped some of the blood donor centers. Volunteers shot up 700 per cent before night fall.

In Philadelphia a line began forming outside the center as soon as the news got around town. In Washington—usually a "steady production center" regardless of the news—the number of donors who came in without appointments increased an average of 1,000 per cent the first three days.

A woman with a son in uniform flew 300 miles to the Portland, Ore., center to donate her blood on D-day. Hundreds of donations came from veterans who fought in France in the first World war.

By the end of the week 123,284 pints of blood had been donated. That compares with 95,875 the week before the invasion.

The same thing is reflected in all war news, although never before was the reaction so startling and immediate. Anzio and Salerno and Tarawa all stepped up blood donations. But during the quiet weeks before the invasion officials had trouble keeping production up to normal in some parts of the country.

Depends on Developments

In on the first response that came in on the first response that came from the invasion, they don't agree on how long it will last.

"It depends on how the invasion goes," a National Headquarters spokesman said. "If we get a succession of victories and keep getting news of small casualties, the chances are the present enthusiasm will soon die down."

Directors of the blood donor program would much prefer to see volunteers coming in at a steady clip, but they have a theory to explain the ups and downs: Many people are naturally afraid at the thought of a needle piercing their blood stream. It takes a tremendous emotional shock to get them into the ranks of the blood donors.

Consequently, Dr. Robinson and his associates go around with their fingers crossed for several days whenever some responsible Allied leader begins talking about possible victory this summer. They know the thought of victory later in the summer will cut down on the amount of blood they need today and tomorrow.

Loopholes

Most recent federal legislation on campaign expenditures is contained in the anti-strike act of 1943. Section 9 provides that no corporation and no labor organization may "make a contribution in connection with any election at which presidential or vice presidential electors or a senator or a representative in congress are to be voted for." This section provides also that no candidate for office, no political organization, and no individual may accept any contribution thus prohibited.

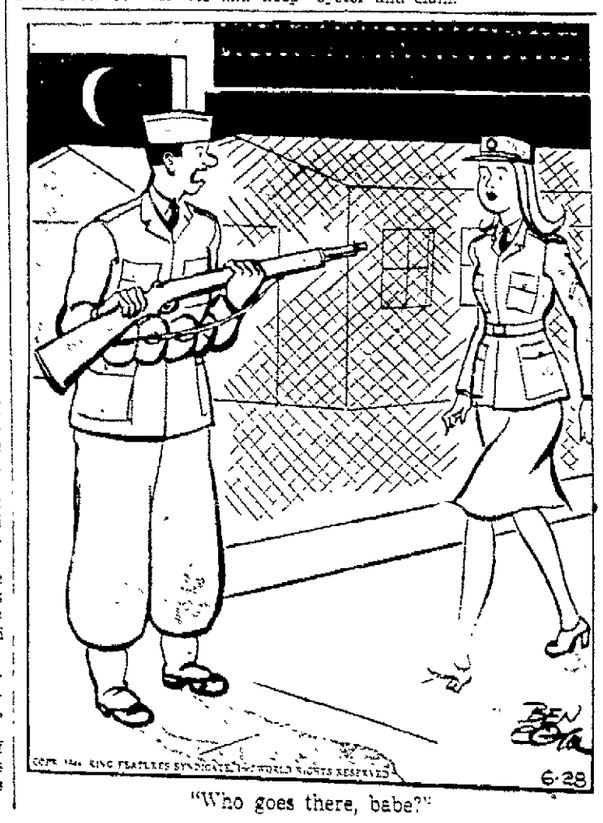

This legislation has wide loopholes. First of all, it does not specifically apply to primaries. Secondly, it does not forbid a labor organization to use its funds in elections directly, under its own jurisdiction. Thirdly, it does not cover such non-labor bodies as farm organizations, Chambers of Commerce and other groups which may learn themselves educational or patriotic organizations.

Finally, Section 9 falls under the general time limitation of the act, which is six months after the duration of hostilities in the present war. This was one of the points adduced by President Roosevelt in vetoing the act.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Private Papers of Private Purkey

DEAR HARRIET—

Well, the first thing I am going to do when I get home from this war is to get on a Hudson river ferryboat and ride back and forth across it. I dreamed myself of the Army habit of jumping overboard and wading ashore.

* * *

The Army don't land nowheres no more. No docks or pacdles ashore.

* * *

If I'd a was dressed for it it would not be bad but we got all our swimming and wading done dressed for dry land and mountain operations.

* * *

Half the time I no not know if I am in the Army, the Navy or a Billy Rose bathing spectacle. I am all mixed up on whether I am a soldier or a sailor. I am too wet to be a soldier, too dry to be a sailor. Except sometimes on these beachhead operations when I am wetter than they even let sailors get except when they get shipwrecked.

* * *

I never knew Europe and Asia was so full of docks and piers. It seems like no matter what place we got to land on we got to get off the boat out in the middle of the ocean where a body never got off of no boat before except was thrown off.

* * *

I should of joined the Navy. It is dry and swimming is not so compulsory. Also when a sailor gets off a ship he waits until it has docked. If he gets off before it docks he is court-martialed for it. I wish Mr Stimson would design soldiers' pants so a G. I. can shake them off in the water like a sailor can do with them sailor pants.

* * *

I been all over this war and I have never seen no sailors trying to swim from the ship to dry land wearing clothes for a north pole expedishun and loaded down with everything in their packs but the ship's anchors and trying to carry a anchor chain in one hand and a ship's steering wheel and barrel of herdtack in the other.

* * *

The real secret of the American Army's success on these beachheads is this. The G. I. is always fighting mad when they get ashore that they can lick anybody and they espeshully hate anybody who is there ahead of them all nice and dry.

* * *

It gets to be a habit. If my shoes ain't full of water now I don't feel the battle is officially on and if I can unbutton my blouse and not have a barrel of water gush out I know something is not regulasnun alright.

* * *

Remember how you warned me to keep warm and not get my feet wet on account of I used to catch cold coming from the subway to the car in a April shower with no rubbers on? Them was the days! I can't understand why being half drowned all the time now don't put me in bed. Maybe I got double-pneumonia all the time and don't even feel it no more.

* * *

Well this is going to be a great war to get over and take up a life where I will have some idea if I am a man or a duck. Being a hero is okay but it feels better to be a hero who is not always feeling like he was a basket of wet wash. I hope all the folks at home are dry. All my love.

Post-War Cut-Ups

By Truman Twill

There is one post-war problem no one is talking about, which is strange because we probably know more about it than any of the others.

It is the problem of the rising generation which will try, as it did after the last war, to make up for lost time in the pursuit of happiness.

They called the result "flaming youth" in the Mad Twenties and sociologists had a heyday about it. It's not tactful to mention it, but some of the out-sized housewives and doddering baldies who hover around them were Grade A juvenile delinquents a couple of decades ago. They solved a post-war problem and didn't know it.

They said fate had played a dirty trick on them and explained, if pinned down, that they intended to get even by bobbing their hair, going places without chaperones, doing the things with bootleg beverages and shocking the fuddy-duddies.

The same thing will happen after this war though probably not in the same form. There is no single formula for escape. For some it will be a fishing trip, for others a round of living. A town boy may yearn for a place in the country, a country boy for the bright lights.

One guess is as good as another, on the effect from war, but this is one guess that escapism from mechanization, including mechanized warfare, will be in the direction of romanticism this time.

We have been thinking about this in connection with a letter we found on the street a few days ago with no envelope, no address, no identification, just the salutation. "Dearest Girl" and the signoff, "Lovingly, Bill." We read it and it was a first-rate job of high-pressure writing, especially the part where The Boy tells The Girl that the two of them—Together—can make it the kind of world they want it to be. Which, dear readers, have we heard that one before?

But anyway, we think The Boy did a good job in this passage: "If we are really wise, we will not rail against the days into which we have been born. It is not really that we have been cheated during an age of mechanization of our dashing knights. That does not account for romanticism; for it is not the clothes we wear or not the things we do, but the way we do them."

That's your story, son, and you stick to it. Because you can depend on it that the psychologists and social workers will worry about you and will emerge from their huddles with a verdict that you are going to pot and that they are just the people who can rescue you—at a price—from a rescue.

We doddering baldies and outsized middle-aged wives who went chasing butterflies then, want you to know we still believe there is much to be said for butterfly-chasing. You'll be good when it's over, if you don't break your neck in the excitement. It's just one of those things everybody should do sometime so he can tell his grandchildren what a cut-up he was—like almost all of us were.

You Can't Fail them NOW!

BACK THE 5TH WAR LOAN TO THE LIMIT

THE cost of Invasion is tremendous. Remember the Sicilian invasion? Each mechanized division required 18,000 gallons of gasoline for every hour it was on the move.

Remember the invasion of Italy? The cost to reach the mainland from the time we began the attack in North Africa was 1,800 aircraft lost.

Even when we win, we lose vast stores of guns, planes, tanks and other equipment. For that is the price of victory. The Bonds you bought in the first four War Loan Drives are today's exploding bombs and shells! They can never be used again.

But today the invasion is on—the battle is bigger than ever! And that is why you must do MORE than ever in the 5th War Loan.

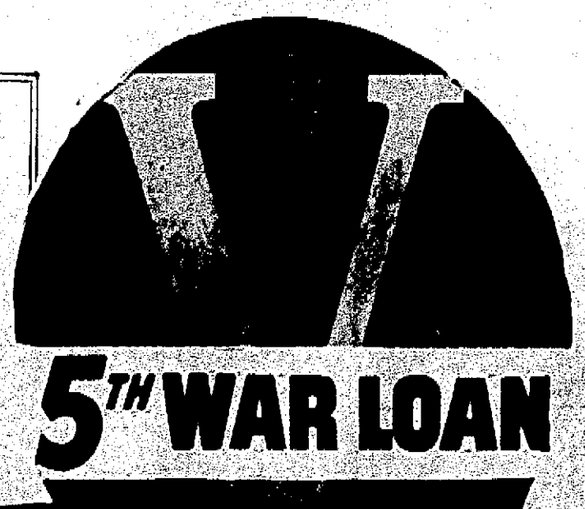

Our fighting men are doing their part. They will go anywhere, anytime, anyhow—and bar nothing! For that is the American spirit. Back that spirit NOW . . . and back the 5th War Loan to the limit!

Now is the time! The job is big—and every moment counts. Go to your regular War Bond sales outlet. Buy all you can — and then more! More than you've ever bought before. Invest not only out of current income but out of idle and accumulated funds. This is the biggest job America has ever had to do! Let's show our fighting men we can do it!

What comes after prayer? All of us have prayed—prayed with deep, heartfelt sincerity for our men's success. But after prayer comes action! Buying War Bonds is one thing you can do—and DO right NOW—that will really and actually help!

Buy That Invasion Bond Today!

HOOVER DELIVERS SCATHING REBUKE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 28—Herbert Hoover was back in the political lists at 69 today after delivering the most scathing denunciation of the Democratic administration yet heard at the Republican national convention.

In a "fight until I die" speech, the only living former president told a cheering crowd of partisans last night that only by an upsetting of the Roosevelt administration "will our returning soldiers find freedom preserved at home."

The New Deal, Hoover said, "forged shackles for the liberties of our people."

He declared the New Deal smacks in milder form, of tactics followed by European revolutions, and that President Roosevelt, the man who beat him in 1932, appears to be indulging in "power politics" and "personal power diplomacy" in foreign affairs .. "not a diplomacy of freedom."

Before he mounted the platform, Hoover told newspapermen: "I'm going to stay in this fight until I die. The fight is for everything that is precious to the American people."

Beaming with apparent good health, Hoover ended speculation that he might not take an active part in this campaign. He left no doubt that he will be in the thick of the fight for a Republican victory this November.

A few enemy planes were encountered, but they did not attack, and headquarters said all the Fortresses and their escort completed the mission.

Dewey and Bricker Nominated

"Ours has been a clean fight. We are proud of Commander Stassen. * * *

"As long as there was the slightest chance of Stassen's nomination we were determined to present his name to this convention. Governor Bricker's eloquent statement has eliminated any chance that existed. Minnesota's delegation has therefore decided not to present Stassen's name to this convention."

Representative Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, another "favorite son," followed Senator Ball and pledged his support to Dewey.

"Here and now I want to offer my hands and my heart, my support and my energy, to what I believe is a great winning ticket in this decisive year of 1944, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio," Dirksen said.

Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts next seconded Dewey's nomination, declaring Dewey "is proving himself daily as governor of our largest state."

Rep. Leonard W. Hall of New York, in another second speech, predicted "the next congress will be Republican—the next president must be a Republican."

"The fact that our electoral system is functioning as smoothly as before is reassuring to us. It means that the things we are fighting for are not being given away in our absence."

Dewey's managers, sure their man will capture the presidential nomination, extended the peace pipe to their nearest rival and said they would be glad to support Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio for second place.

Bricker was faced with probably the most difficult decision of his political career.

But when Governor Warren eliminated himself unequivocally from vice presidential consideration last night, Bricker had said:

"Whatever happens I'll do everything in my power to carry the country this fall for the ticket that is chosen here."

An 18-place plane was waiting at Albany for Dewey's call, ready to speed him, his aides and newspapermen to the Chicago stadium after the convention acted definitely—possibly in early afternoon. This might put Dewey on the platform tonight.

The drive to draft Governor Warren for second place sagged after the big Californian, besieged from all sides, flatly said:

"I could not accept a nomination for a place on the national ticket if it were offered."

This set off mounting tension over the vice presidential question which completely dominated the convention's third day after a night session in which a platform was adopted without apparent dissent, former President Herbert Hoover was cheered to the rafter

Dewey Due Tonight

Sprague said arrangements had been made for Dewey to appear before the convention at 9 p. m. tonight. Dewey will leave New York by plane today as soon as he is notified by telephone of his nomination.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts, called the convention to order at 10:50 a. m. (CWT), and Dr. J. L. Horace, president of the Illinois Negro Baptist conference, delivered the invocation.

Chief Ben American Horse, alternate delegate from South Dakota, stood on the platform with Martin. The chief was wearing full Sioux buckskin regalia, despite the torrid heat.

when he lambasted the New Deal, and Rep. Clare Boothe Luce told the delegates the administration is "distorting our democracy into a dictatorial bumbledom."

Alabama, first state on the call for nominations, yielded to Nebraska whose Governor Griswold had been named to place Dewey's name in nomination.

Nebraska, in turn, yielded to Ohio—and state after state passed on the roll call to move toward swift approval of Dewey, then Bricker.

When Ohio was reached on the roll call, the chairman of the delegation sang out:

"Ohio passes."

Thus the plan unfolded for Bricker's nomination for the vice presidency.

Wisconsin announced it would put a name in nomination.

After the state call, Griswold took over the speaker's platform and made his speech in Dewey's behalf, drawing applause almost immediately by declaring:

"We are here to bring Washington, D. C., back into the union."

First Parade Starts

Governor Griswold's closing mention of the name Thomas E. Dewey, set off the first big demonstration of the convention.

Bands blared "Hail Michigan." State standard after state standard bobbed out into the jam-packed aisles.

There was a veritable forest of posters bearing Dewey's picture.

Martin tried to bring order after the demonstration had gone on for 8 minutes but he was unsuccessful. Brass bands started off again just below his dais.

Finally, after 20 minutes, Martin restored order. But the noise started all over again when Bricker strode out on the platform.

The Ohioan beamed and waved and the crowd went wild. Mrs. Katherine Kennedy Brown, national committeewoman from Ohio, stood beside him.

Bricker banners sprang up throughout the hall and another parade started, to the accompaniment of Ohio cowbells.

Shouts of "We Want Bricker" came from the floor as Martin tried again and again to get order.

Even while Bricker was withdrawing from the presidential lists, some of his die-hard supporters were shouting: "Don't quit, John!"

Then, when the Ohioan's decision was made irrevocable, Ball strode up to announce that Minnesota was withdrawing the name of Stassen in the interest of unity.

Those who seconded Dewey's nomination in quick order included Dirksen, Saltonstall, Rep. Hall, John P. Prescott, Chicago Negro leader; and Mrs. Rose Gorr Mayes of Kellogg, Idaho.

Dr. John P. Koehler, former Milwaukee health commissioner, told reporters he intended to nominate General Douglas MacArthur "if I can," and Grant A. Ritter, Beloit, Wis., said he wanted to second the general's nomination.

In scathing language, Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Luce told the convention that President Roosevelt's foreign policies followed neither the "diplomacy of freedom" nor the path of peace.

Mr. Roosevelt's predecessor in the White House said the President appeared to be engaging in "power politics" and "personal power diplomacy."

The war is being fought "for freedom, he asserted, and it will not be achieved here or abroad if the New Deal policies are continued.

The blond Mrs. Luce, representative in congress from Connecticut, suggested that "skillful and determined" statesmanship during Mr. Roosevelt's three terms might have headed off the war. There has been a decade of "confusion and conflict that ended in war," she said.

Mrs. Luce, only woman alloted a major speaking role, called for the election of a president "who loves his country more than he loves power."

Most Republican politicians agreed that what Dewey says, rather than what the convention approved yesterday, will write the G.O.P.'s foreign policy ticket in November.

The platform plank qualified its promise of "responsible" American participation in a security organizataion with a ban on a "world state" and the debatable direction for "peace forces" to prevent war.

Largely because it was represented as having Dewey's textual approval, the plank won convention indorsement without the fight which 15 Republican governors had been talking up for several days.

FIFTH ARMY SLUGS STEADILY FORWARD

By The Associated Press

ROME, June 28—San Vincenzo, only 32 miles below the big port of Livorno on the Italian west coast, was wrested from the Germans after a bitter house-to-house battle that lasted for several hours last night, and today the Fifth army was reported slugging its way steadily forward.

San Vincenzo had been converted into a fortress by the Nazis, who had evacuated all civilians, then erected barricades and wire entanglements in front of the defenses.

Farther inland an American armored force continued to roll back stubborn enemy resistance and occupied the villages of Chiusdino and Travale. Chiusdino is only 17 miles southwest of Siena, key highway and communications center 31 miles below Florence.

Supported by Italian partisans, an American infantry force bypassed, then surrounded and captured the town of Sasseta, four miles northeast of San Vincenzo, despite its defense by elements of the German 17th SS division, identified in that sector for the first time.

Other enemy units were mopped up in the village of Belvedere, below Chiusdino and Travale, while the French, who advanced to the vicinity of San Quirico D'Orcia, 22 miles southeast of Siena on highway two, beat back repeated enemy counterattacks.

In addition to moving in reinforcements, the Germans opposed a further Fifth army advance with increased artillery fire, hurriedly laid mine fields and assembled new concentrations of anti-tank guns. Disabled German tanks were used as road blocks and the village of Travale was demolished by the enemy in an attempt to convert the entire town into a road block.

Friday Deadline for Auto Stamps

Marion motorists are reminded that Friday is the deadline for buying and displaying the new $5 auto use tax stamps. Postoffice officials reported today that of the 9,800 which must be in use on July 1, only 2,300 have been sold to date.

The stamps are on sale at the postoffice. They are a purple color, bearing the same design as previous issues with space on the back for the model, serial number and state license number of the owner's car. They are gummed to auto windshields, signifying that the owner has paid the tax for one year.

SAILORS BEST CUBS

Today's Fifth War Loan Scoreboard in Marion County

Goal	$3,365,000.00
Sales Yesterday	175,511.75
Previous Sales	3,675,110.00
Over Quota	485,621.75
Total to Date	3,850,621.75

Sales to date include $103,351.75 in E bonds, 49.2 per cent of the county's $819,000 E bond quota.

COUNTY'S E BONDS NEAR 50 PER CENT

$20,456 Added to Total in Tuesday's Sales.

Marion county added $20,456.26 to its E bond total of the Fifth War Loan yesterday when 487 more bonds were sold.

This made a new E total of $403,387.75 or 49.2 per cent of the $819,000 quota.

Drive leaders continued to emphasize the need for increased public response to the E bond sales drive. They pointed out that sales will have to continue at the present rate throughout the rest of June and all of July to each the quota.

"It may be difficult to keep up the daily average of sales to date in view of the fact the residential drive is nearly finished, and the cream of the easy sales is already in," Robert E. White, drive chairman, pointed out. "That means that we're going into the difficult selling period — the final weeks of the campaign—facing the need of maintaining the daily sales volume we have had in the early, comparatively easy weeks of the drive. Everyone must help if we are to put the E bond drive over."

Some corporation purchases yesterday helped swell the day's overall business to $175,511.75, to give the county a new total of $3,850,621.75 or 114 per cent of the $3,365,000 goal.

So far, 7,791 persons have bought E bonds, and the total number of purchasers of all nedominations is 8,092.

CO. M MEMBERS GIVEN TYPHOID INOCULATIONS

Preparations Made for Annual State Guard Camp.

Typhoid inoculations were given to Co. M. members at the Armory Tuesday night by Dr. N. Sifritt in preparation for the annual camp period in August.

Last night's program included map reading by Sgt. Frank Furniss, unarmed defense by Sgt. Ralph Young, and interior guard duty by Sgt. Alvin Franklin.

Sgt. Kermit Taylor, chairman of the picnic committee, reported on the entertainment scheduled for the picnic to be held July 9 at McKinley Park.

Last night was the final drill for Francis E. Hindman who leaves today for Navy training.

The nine remaining charter members of Co. H reenlisted Tuesday night in Co. M. They are: First Sergeant Carl Pollock; Staff Sergeants Kermit Taylor, Timothy Fahey and Donald Wertman; Sergeants Alvin Franklin, Frank Furniss, Floyd Sutton; privates, first class Earl Camp and Walter V. WORLD'S NEED DISCUSSED IN DR. BOB JONES TALK

"Men are not liars because they lie, they lie because they are liars. Thieves are not thieves because they steal, they steal because they are thieves," Dr. Bob Jones, the internationally known evangelist and the founder of Bob Jones College of Cleveland, Tenn., told an audience at Calvary Evangelical church last night.

"Fixing Men Instead of Conditions" was the subject which Dr. Jones discussed. He said in part, "The trouble with the world is not with conditions, it is with men who make the conditions. Conditions may influence men, but men make conditions and conditions do not make men. Education for which we have been spending millions of public money has not changed human nature. I'll match the morals of the women who live in mountain cabins who cannot write their own names against the morals of the women who have graduated from the great universities of America. Education is a good thing in a way, but you can't put men in prison for forgery until you first teach them to write.

"The things that make men happy money cannot buy. Money may buy a wife, but no woman's love ever sold in the markets of the world.

"These politicians who think they can fix men by fixing the world are wrong. All social service without God is just a shot in the arm of society. In America we have made dope fiends out of certain social groups. Every time certain people get out of "dope" they call on Washington for help. What men need is an operation. They need the cancer of sin cut out."

TWO WOMEN FINED

Lillie Rose, 24, and Edith Siedham, 25, both of 467 West Center street pleaded guilty in municipal court today to disorderly conduct charges and were fined $25 and costs each. They were arrested by city police at 2:23 a. m. today near the Pennsylvania railroad camp on West Center street.

DALE GREENLAND

RANGER

100 were killed and the remainder some 800, were taken prisoner.

The Rangers gave up only after they had fired their last round of ammunition and thrown their last grenade against vastly larger German forces they encountered after they had infiltrated four miles through enemy lines in a stirring night and day action, Allied headquarters reported. At times, the survivors said, they were close enough to German batteries to hear the crews giving orders in German. Hopes of the men were blasted when, a report of the encounter relates, they cheered as they spied a tank behind them. "We thought it was supporting us" one of the survivors related in a news article, "and then it opened up on us and we knew what it was."

Mr. and Mrs. Greenland knew their son had taken part in the engagement when it was announced that the First and Third battalions were in the battle. A letter written Jan. 17 told them not to worry if they did not hear from him for a while as he was "going to be busy."

Left Here in 1940

Tech. Greenland was one of the first group of nine selectees to leave Marion for military training on Nov. 25, 1940 and had been overseas since April 1942. He went first to Ireland where he joined the Rangers and later went to Scotland. He saw action in North Africa and after going to Italy was sent back to North Africa where he spent four months in a hospital. He did not inform his parents as to why he was hospitalized but did mention having taken part in 26 engagements up to that time. He also mentioned having received citations from the British and French governments in February 1943 but did not say what they were for. He trained at Fort Knox, Ky., and was in a quartermaster's corps of the First Armored Division. He was home on furlough in March 1942 just before embarking from Fort Dix, N. J. for overseas service. His twin brother, Staff Sgt. Gale Greenland is now stationed at Camp Robinson, near Little Rock, Ark. after 33 months service in Trinidad, Aruba and other battle fronts in the Caribbean area. He returned to the states about two months ago.

FINNS COMMITTED AS GERMAN PARTNER

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, June 28—With the Finnish government finally committed to fighting on beside Germany, Nazi troops moved into Finland's cities and towns in force today in response to a plea for help against the onrushing Soviet armies.

Helsinki resounded with the songs of marching German regular troops and SS guards. The Germans seemed to be occupying all parts of the country and it was reported some already were at the eastern front, where previously the Finns fought alone.

Last night a Finnish communique proclaimed "perfect understanding had been reached between Germany and Finland and said German foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop had promised the military aid needed to continue the war against Russia.

Swedish dispatches said that so complete was Finland's alignment with the Nazis that henceforth the Finnish communique would be a part of the German communique. Thus ended Finland's pretentious that she was fighting a separate war with Russia.

As the Germans took possession of Helsinki Associated Press Correspondent Robert Sturdevant managed to telephone from there, despite stringent censorship, "I am moving—I emphasize moving—to the American legation tonight. Watch Berlin."

One report here said Von Ribbentrop had promised the Finns five German divisions and 300 planes to continue the fight against Russia. Stockholm military opinion was that the Germans, hard-pressed on many fronts, can ill afford that many soldiers.

Hollywood Keeps Tab on Warren at Convention

By JACK STINNETT
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO—Delegates to the 23rd quadrennial Republican convention are discovering that for the first time Hollywood is becoming politically conscious.

The klieg lights that turned the Chicago stadium into a steam bath are no novelty to half a dozen Hollywoodites here to keep an eye on the political fortunes of nomination-shy Earl Warren.

Among the elected delegates from the Hollywood area are two of the Cinema city's top-notch producers. There is Cecil B. DeMille who, if he had his way, would produce the show here with a 200-foot square swimming pool in the middle of the convention floor. That almost could get him the presidential nomination in this 100-degree climate.

There is also David O. Selznick, the "Gone With the Wind" man.

More important politically, however, is a fellow who holds no official title with the California delegation. His Leo Carrillo, the genial Irishman of films, whose parts by theft here was the spotlight every time Governor Warren took the platform. Every time the governor appeared, Carrillo led the cheering.

Carrillo's family runs back to the days of the conquistadores in California. His great grandfather was one of the state's first provisional governors. Leo campaigned with Warren for the governorship, and friends say he had much to do with coaching the governor to his present standing as one of the best public speakers in the party.

Also on hand is Gracie Allen, to give her muddled impressions of the convention on the radio, and Louella Parsons, dean of Hollywood columnists.

You would almost think Hollywood is getting ready to make another more up-to-date "Mr. Smith (or somebody) goes to Washington."

Ninth Inning Spurt Gives Marion 8 to 7 Victory Over Zanesville

First Baseman Singles To Drive in Winning Score.

MARION'S victory hungry Cubs continued the pace they started Sunday by trimming Zanesville, 8 to 7 in the last inning of their final game here last night.

The locals had a mild uprising in the seventh and ninth innings to come from behind and score their third straight win in as many days.

The climax came in the ninth inning when Smith tripled to the wall in left center scoring Broukal, who had walked and Bellamy who pinch-hit for Crowe. Bellamy got on with a single to centerfield. Al Jeski, latest arrival for Marion, then hit a Texas leaguer to center field which dropped between the shortstop and centerfielder, scoring Smith for the final tally.

Score in First

Zanesville's runs started in the first inning with Sloss singling to center field. Bauer was safe on a fielder's choice which caught Sloss going to second. Bishop walked, Ward flied to center field advancing Bauer and Bishop. Breitbach then drove one to deep left center which Morneweg bobbled, Bauer and Bishop scoring.

Limbo then singled to left field and on the throw in Breitbach was caught stealing home.

Sloss started the third by grounding, pitcher to first. Bauer walked and was out on a fielder's choice by Bishop. Ward then hit one to Smith who threw over Jeski's head, Bishop going to third and Ward to second. Breitbach singled bringing in Bishop and Ward. Limbo singled and Fallers grounded to Smith who stepped on third for the put out.

Marion scored one in the third on singles by Blunt and Minnis and also Smith's hit on an error. Minnis was out taking second, Edwards popped up, Smith was safe on an overthrow at first, allowing Blunt to score. Jeski flied to center to end the inning.

Four More In Seventh

In the seventh inning Marion bagged four more to put themselves back in the running, one run behind. Morneweg was safe on an error by the pitcher. Vickery then doubled to right field, Morneweg going to third. Broukal walked, filling the bases. Then Blunt singled scoring Morneweg and Vickery. Minnis was safe on an error by Sloss, Broukal scoring, Blunt went to third and Minnis to second. Crowe grounded third to first with Blunt scoring on the play. Smith grounded and Jeski flied out to end the inning.

The Dodgers scored one in the fifth on a triple by Bishop and a single by Breitbach. Again in the seventh they scored when Sloss walked and reached second on a passed ball. The next two struck out. Ward singled and tried to go to second but he was out, Vickery to Pace to Jeski with Sloss stealing home ahead of the play. Their last score came in the ninth inning on a hit and an error. Morrison flied to left, Schmidt was safe on an error by Crowe, who overthrew first base with Schmidt going to third. Sloss then singled him home and the inning ended with Bauer and Bishop grounding out.

Although coming out on the long end of the score, Marion was a little on the crippled side today as Don Carlsen, shortstop from Newport, N. Y., had to be removed for Pace in the sixth because of a sprained back and "Randy" Edwards left the game during Marion's half of that inning due to a spiked ankle which he got sliding into first base.

Middletown Coming

Tomorrow night Marion will play Middletown in the first of a three game series at Lincoln park with Ostrowski pitching for the locals and seeking his second win in four starts.

Preview Hambletonian at North Randall Today

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 28—A preview of the Hambletonian takes place at North Randall's grand circuit track today as seven three-year-old trotters step out in the $3,856 Matron stake.

Yankee Maid is top choice in today's event as well as in Hambletonian future book. Eva's boy and Enne are expected to give the Maid the most competition.

Kimberly Hanover, a two-year-old filly, clicked in her first public appearance yesterday by winning the $2,000 Cleveland Plain Dealer purse in straight heats.

A long shot at 15 to 2 in the first heat, Kimberly won by a short neck over Nora in the opening whirl and came back to trim honor Hanover by a good length in the second mile.

Georgia Tech's crack two-man entry of sixth-seeded Frank Willett and Howard McCall had California's vacated team crown within reasonable reach after the pre-meet favorite, Notre Dame, suffered two singles defeats and a doubles setback yesterday.

TOLEDO CATCHES UP WITH COLUMBUS IN ASSOCIATION RACE

Defeat Kansas City To Land in Tie with Red Birds, Beaten by Brewers.

By The Associated Press

Toledo's snappy Mud Hens finally overhauled the second-place Columbus Red Birds in the American Association race last night, while the Milwaukee Brewers fattened their first-place margin to seven games.

The hustling brood grabbed its fifth straight win and swept a four-game series from Kansas City with a 10-3 triumph, thus climbing into a runner-up deadlock with the Red Birds who dropped a 13-inning decision to the Brewers, 3-2.

In other games, St. Paul edged Indianapolis, 5-4, to hand the hapless Tribe their tenth straight setback, and Minneapolis blasted 21 hits to scuttle Louisville, 19-9.

By way of celebrating their climb to the second rung, the Mud Hens also polished off the Brooklyn Dodgers, 10-6, in an exhibition game witnessed by nearly 6,000 fans.

The brood benefitted by a six-hit performance by Bill Seinsoth in drubbing the Blues. Toledo's 12 hits off two Kansas City tossers included a brace of homers by Bill Burgo, his third and fourth in two nights.

Milwaukee's overtime triumph was a bitter pill to take for the Red Birds, who held a 2-0 lead entering the ninth. But Ed Levy, newly acquired from the New York Yankees, batted two Milwaukee markers across in that stanza. In the 13th Levy singled home Heinz Becker, who had doubled, for the winning run and the fifth victory of the season for relief Owen Scheetz.

NEW YORK, June 28—Ned Irish, boss of Madison Square Garden, already has so many basketball teams lined up for next winter that he can't find room for all of them...Ned says he could use three more dates but the only way he can get them would be to run court shows on successive nights — which wouldn't be good box office.... BIG TEN DOMINATES COLLEGE TOURNEY

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., June 28—A lone "outsider" was all that kept the semi-finals of the National Collegiate golf tournament today from being an all-Big Ten affair.

In fact, if it hadn't been for Henry Rampelt of Baldwin-Wallace college the semi-finals would have been strictly a Minnesota-Michigan scrap.

But Rampelt, a long hitting naval trainee and the only Baldwin-Wallace representative in the tournament, outslugged a slugger yesterday to gain his semi-final berth. He whipped Husky Phil Marcellus of Michigan, 6 and 5.

Rumpelt met Johnny Jenswold of Michigan in one semi-final match today while Louis Lick of Minnesota matched strokes with Tom Messinger of Michigan in the other.

Hot golf and hot weather marked yesterday afternoon's quarter finals. The official temperature in Toledo was 96 but on the Inverness Country club's back breaking layout it was figured the temperature was around 105.

That was just about the heat exuded by Lick as he blazed around 13 holes of the course in three under par to whip the tournament medalist, James Jackson of Washington University of St. Louis, 6 and 5.

Baseball Teams Go After Half Million in War Relief Fund

By The Associated Press

Baseball goes after its third $500,000 war relief goal tonight.

Across the board in all four western parks of the National league, gate receipts go directly into war funds. The situation will be reversed in the eastern parks of the National on July 26 and the American league will stage its 8-game program on scattered dates beginning July 7.

Baseball has raised an estimated $2,130,000 for the war effort including relief games by each club in the majors in 1942 and 1943, two all-star tilts and portions of two World Series games. Once again the slogan for the relief games is "hit the $500,000 mark."

St. Louis has a double feature in the playoff of the "suspended" game of May 16 in addition to the regular tilt with the Phils. Freddy Fitzsimmons' club had a 6-4 lead in the seventh inning when the contest was called to allow the Phils to catch a train.

The incident touched off a wave of protest in St. Louis where it was alleged the fans had not been forewarned by the Cardinal management of any deadline.

Max Lanier's win streak was broken and the "suspension" play enabled the Redbird ace to make it six in a row before he, although he had been belted from the hill and apparently beaten by the Phils. Fred Schmidt and Charley Schanz, who were pitching when the game was called, will go back to work tonight along with the same lineups.

Cincinnati has a twilight-night doubleheader with the Boston Braves as its war relief attraction. Chicago has a day double header with Brooklyn and Pittsburgh in a single night game with the New York Giants.

The New York Yankees will entertain the league-leading St. Louis Browns in an important set with Don Savage out of action due to an injury but Tucker Shea back reporting as available for outfield duty after a month's absence. Second place Chicago opens against the Boston Red Sox in the other first division series. Cleveland is at Philadelphia and Detroit at Washington for a twin game.

TRIBE IN PHILLY ON EASTERN TOUR

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 28 — Confronted with the fact that they must play better than .500 ball to retain any pennant hopes, Cleveland's Indians engaged the Philadelphia Athletics today in the inaugural of a 14-game eastern tour.

Allie Reynolds drew the Tribal mound assignment against the A's Don Black in the opener of the three-game series.

Second Baseman Ray Mack, who has been playing with the Indians in their home contests, is taking a two-week vacation from his Cleveland war plant job and will be available for the entire eastern tour.

The Tribe added another fly chaser to its roster yesterday when Myril Hoag was obtained from the Chicago White Sox for the waiver price of $7,500. Hoag, a medical discharge from the Army, had been used sparingly this season by the Chisox and will serve as a utility outfielder with the Indians.

Pitcher Kal Kleine was optioned to the Baltimore club of the International league to keep the Tribe within the 25-player limit.

Reds and Braves Play for War Fund Today

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 28 — The Cincinnati Reds and Boston Braves clash late today in a twilight-night doubleheader, proceeds of which go to the War Relief and Service Fund Inc.

The Reds' management expects a capacity crowd and the first game gets under way at 6:30 p. m.

Deacon Bill McKechnie, Cincinnati manager, starts Lefty Arnold Carter and Clyde Shoun on the mound unopposed by Al Javery and Nate Andrews, two of the league's better right-handers.

WILLKIE TELEGRAPHS MESSAGE TO DEWEY

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 28—Wendell Willkie telegraphed congratulations to Governor Thomas E. Dewey today soon after the New York governor's name was placed in nomination for the presidency at the Republican national convention.

Addressed to New York state's chief executive, at Albany, the telegram read:

"Hearty congratulations to you on your nomination. You have one of the great opportunities of history."

Except for the telegram, there was no other indication how the 1940 Republican presidential candidate, who quit the race for a second nomination after being defeated in the Wisconsin primary, viewed the nomination or what part he might play in the forthcoming campaign.

40,549 Allied Troops Lost in Invasion Blow

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 28—The supreme command announced today that the first two weeks of the European invasion cost the allies 40,549 casualties, including 24,162 Americans killed, wounded and missing—figures that still do not include last week's losses in the Cherbourg assault or the start of the present British offensive in the Caen area.

Of the casualty total for the period from June 6 to June 20, inclusive, 5,287 were killed—of which 3,082 were Americans 1,842 British and 368 Canadians.

Against these allied losses German casualties in Normandy through the fall of Cherbourg have been estimated by supreme headquarters at not less than 70,000 men.

A large percentage of the American casualties came in the first two bloody days of fighting on the beaches when elements of the First and 29th divisions ran headon into a German division practicing invasion exercises along the landing coast. The British and Canadians were able to land with less opposition.

The complete allied figures for the two-week period:

United States—3,082 killed, 13,121 wounded, and 7,959 missing, a total of 24,162.

British—1,842 killed, 8,599 wounded, and 3,131 missing, a total of 13,572.

Canadian — 363 killed, 1,359 wounded, and 1,093 missing, a total of 2,815.

PROFIT SELLING HITS MARKET

Leading Issues Decline Fractions to Around Two Points.

NEW YORK, June 28—Profit selling put the stock market in reverse today after yesterday's rise to new seven year tops and leading issues fell fractions to around 2 points.

Many of recent buyers, it appeared, felt impelled to trim speculative positions rather than risk the chances of sizable pre-holiday reaction later in the week. War news continued to make for optimism, events at the Republican convention were proceeding according to expectations, but there was a little concern over the Argentine situation.

The sell-off was general but a few stocks showed outstanding strength, notably American Telephone which held a point gain near the fourth hour. Volume was down from yesterday's 2,170,000 share turnover.

Pivotals in lower ground included Chrysler, General Motors, Willys-Overland, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Harvester, Bendix, Westinghouse, DuPont, Eastman, Pan American Airways, Great Northern, Union Pacific and Texas Co. Park & Tilford dropped about 4 to a new year's low.

Bonds were steady and commodities irregular.

U. S. PLANES BLAST GERMAN AIRFIELDS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 28 — A great allied aerial offensive aimed at flattening every German operational airdrome in France was resumed today with a triple attack by at least 750 American heavy bombers after the RAF had hurled 1,000 planes against two key rail centers in France and rocket installations along the channel coast during the night.

The Couvren, Athies and Juvincourt airfields—all in the vicinity of Laon—were blasted in clear weather this morning by Flying Fortresses and Liberators escorted by Thunderbolts, Mustangs and Lightnings.

Railway yards at Saarbrucken and other unspecified military targets in the vicinity of Paris and Laon also were attacked by Fortresses and Liberators.

In daylight this morning another formation of RAF Halifaxes with fighter escort bombed flying-bomb emplacements in France.

The British overnight operations followed a day of brisk allied aerial activity in which more than 2,000 sorties were flown in unfavorable weather. The RAF raiders split into three forces for their attacks, the two largest striking simultaneous blows at Vitry-Le-Francois and Vaires, key rail junctions south and east of Paris which the Nazis have been jamming with troops and supplies headed for the front.

The third force of British night raiders meanwhile subjected the Nazis' rocket bomb installations to another heavy assault.

WHEAT PRICES GET BOOST, THEN SAG

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 28 — Milling interests covering recent heavy flour sales were persistent buyers of wheat futures again today and the demand gave the market a strong undertone. In late dealings, however, commission houses were on the selling side and prices were well below the highs for the day.

Oats and rye were easy after early firmness and the trade was quiet.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"I DON'T need to go to bed if there's anything I can do to help you or Katie, Miss Graham," Jim said chivalrously, and I smiled at him, for I knew how much of earnestness and sincerity was behind his offer.

"Thank you, Jim," I said. "And if we needed you, I shouldn't hesitate to call on you. But we don't. When you finish that room for those three guards, and look after the fires as you always do the last thing, there won't be a single thing for you to do. And you know how early you have to get up in the morning for the farm work."

Doesn't Matter

"That don't matter," he assured me. "But I'll do jest what you say. Come along, Katie."

"When you've finished with that room, Katie," I said, "come over to my room—I'll be there getting ready for my trip and then I'll tell you what next I want done."

"All right, I feex," she said, slipping back into the old familiar routine as if she had not just threatened to forsake it forever. And then she was following Jim up the backstairs, and I was hurrying up the front to my room.

There really was very little to be done. I always keep ready a traveling kit with small vials and jars of my cosmetics, toilet articles, a tiny sewing kit, my clinical thermometer, a small flashlight, a few smallest size First Aid articles, and the odds and ends of every woman's personal dressing routine.

Everything Ready

In one drawer of my dresser, also, I always keep changes of lingerie, slips, hose, collars and handkerchiefs, so that I can pack a small bag at a minute's notice. Usually I carry only a small suitcase. But this time I pulled out a larger one from my closet.

I did not plan to take any extra gown or suit with me. This was war time, and the one I intended to wear would have to do "for mill and for meeting" until I should come back again. An extra filled collar or two to brighten it up was the only concession I made to dressiness.

But I knew that I should need the larger case to hold the mourning costume disguise and grey wig which Lillian was bringing me. In our private code, "Quim" not only means "Interpret carefully according to our code," but it also means: "Bring disguise." As the mourning costume was the only one she had on hand, according to my certain knowledge, I was sure that she had it with her. My own, unfortunately, had been destroyed by accident the year before, or I should not have had to trouble her. As it was, I knew that I should have to do a bit of quick alternation to make the dress fit me, before I started back to New York with it.

Prepares Sewing Machine

I packed everything in the big bag, laying in it my best dressing gown and bedroom slippers to match. Then I went to the sewing room, and brought back my portable electric sewing machine, saw that it was threaded with black, and set it on a table.

Feeling that I was now ready for the morrow, I turned down my bed, got into my night things, braided my hair, and was in bed when Katie knocked on the door.

"I'm going to get what sleep I can, Katie," I said, "before that long drive back. And when you have finished what you have to do, I want you to go to bed, also. One of the boys will call you when the armored car arrives. But remember that Jim does not need to get up."

"I'll remember," she said, "Dot poor feesh, he no dare steeck his fool head outi doi bed, or I gif him vun good vallup. Now vot you wandt me do?"

"First, I want you to get Mrs. Underwood's room all ready for her. I know it is beautifully clean. But you will want to put linen on the bed, and freshen it a bit, so that it will be all ready for her when she comes. Then I want you to set the table in the dining room for Mrs. Underwood, the two boys, and myself, and the table in the kitchen above for the five men who will come with the truck. Two will go back with us, but they'll all be hungry.

Haste Needed

"Put coffee in the tops of the two biggest percolators," I directed, and keep a kettle of hot water on the range. We'll break our rule, this time, of having freshly boiled water for coffee," I told her with a smile. "What we'll need when they come will be haste."

"You said a mouthful dot time, Miss Graham," Katie commented, and I choked back my laughter.

"Then you arrange your stuff in the refrigerator so you can get at it handily," I said. "I think a very nice supper when they arrive would be some hot soup first—some of that wonderful vegetable soup with chicken broth that we canned last summer. Then sausages—they're fresh from the last butchering—scrambled eggs."

"And to top off, some of my buckwheat cakes, dot I feex shoost now," Katie said "Dey rise enuff by den, you bet. Eef not, I heat up some sour milk ones. Und ve haf lots of maple syrup, you bet. How you like dot?"

"I think it sounds very nice, Katie," I told her, and then there came a hurried knocking on my door.

"Mums'" Junior said. "We're all packed and ready. What do we do now?"

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Aspirin

I suppose aspirin is the most widely used drug in the United States. Caffeine certainly rivals this universally and very probably surpasses it, but caffeine is used so much like a food that we hardly think of it as a drug.

This increasing popularity of aspirin is not easy to explain. I know people who use it as a sleeping tablet and others who consider it a pepper-upper. Of course, it is constantly taken for colds, headaches, rheumatism, and muscular aching and then also on general principles.

I have a letter which expresses the general state of opinion as follows: "Won't you write an article on aspirin? Many of us when we feel tired and nervous take one or two tablets with a coke or just water. Seems to fill the bill, but we would like to know whether there is any reason we should not do so."

To answer the last question first, I do not know of any reason why aspirin should not be taken in any quantity. The only exception to this is that there are people who are definitely allergic to it, and it produces very severe symptoms in them. But they go into the allergic state on very small amounts and almost immediately after the aspirin has been swallowed.

I had one terrifying experience with a man to whom I gave some capsules containing two grains each of aspirin. He took one capsule as soon as he had got home and within five minutes his throat and tongue had swollen so that he nearly died of suffocation. I worked with him all night and the experience taught me that there is such a thing as sensitivity to aspirin. But, as was said, the reaction occurs when very small doses are absorbed, and one can assume that if a person is able to take five grains of aspirin without harm, he will be able to take almost any amount.

One of my friends who strongly believes in the use of aspirin in arthritis gives as much as a hundred or two hundred grains a day for a period of several weeks without untoward symptoms. So I believe we may assume that for practical purposes it is harmless.

Now as to its actions. It was introduced into medicine as a substitute for salicylic acid and sodium salicylate in rheumatism. Those preparations upset the stomach when given in large doses. It was claimed for aspirin that it would not do this. Chemically it is acetyl-salicylic acid. The salicylates are indicated primarily in acute inflammatory rheumatism. They reduce fever of any kind and have a selective action in stopping joint pains.

But they also relieve pain in general anywhere of any type, so aspirin is properly put into headache capsules, cold tablets, etc.

That is about as far as the science of pharmacology will go in recommendations for aspirins. As to its use as a sleep producer or nerve quieter there is no scientific evidence, but it is so generally used in this way and seems to get results so often that the ultra-scientific can hardly afford to scoff at such claims. Such popularity must have some foundation.

Of course, when my correspondent speaks of combining it with a coke and other things he is complicating the problem. Any form of caffeine beverage (and this includes most of our soft drinks) helps to dissipate that let down feeling. Besides caffeine is what is called synergistic with aspirin—and when taken in combination each augments the other's action. If you look at the label on any of the popular cold remedies you will find in most cases that aspirin and caffeine are both present.
